REMAINS OF HIGH SPEED POLICE CAR CRASH

A Sausalito mechanic, Samuel E. DeMello, examines the wreckage of a Sausalito patrol car in which officer Michael Patrick was injured today. Patrick was hospitalized at Marin General Hospital with a severely strained right leg after his car spun out of control today while chasing another car said to have been speeding. The patrol car hit a pole on Easterby Street at more than 70 miles an hour, police said. After the wreck at 12:20 a.m. a Sausalito man, Robert Alan Girard, 30, of 315 Richardson Street, turned himself in to a second patrolman. He was booked into Marin County Jail for investigation of reckless driving involving an injury and released on $625 bail to appear in Marin Municipal Court Wednesday.

Campaign Spending Ceiling Set By Nixon

First Reform Since 1925 —Effective In 60 Days

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon signed today a new federal law aimed at regulating the raising and spending of election funds for presidential and congressional candidates in the high cost era of television campaigning.

Nixon called the bill realistic and enforceable.

The new measure, effective in 60 days, becomes the first reform in campaign spending in nearly half a century, replacing the outmoded and toothless 1925 Corrupt Practices Act.

It placed a ceiling on the amount that may be spent this year on behalf of presidential candidates, including primaries where affected.

It also requires stiffer, periodic financial reports, and brings under control the myriad political fund-raising commttees which in the past were able to circumvent spending restrictions.

Under a formula allowing roughly 10 cents a voter, each party will be permitted to spend up to $13.9 million on plugging their 1972 presidential nominees, but only about $8.4 million may be used for television and radio messages.

This compares with the $12.6 million spent by the Republicans in the 1968 Nixon campaign and the $6.1 million used by the Democrats in Hubert H. Humphrey's losing effort four years ago.

In signing the bill Nixon said it was "an important step forward in an area which has been of great public concern."

He added; "Because I share that concern, I am pleased to give my approval to this bill."

Nixon, who waited until the deadline to sign the legislation, said in a statement that it "will guard against campaign abuses and will work to build public confidence in the integrity in the electoral process."

Some question arose about enforcement of the law although Nixon insisted it would be enforced.

A Justice Department section which had responsibility for violations of the corrupt Practices Act was disbanded last August and its duties split between two other sections.

A new unit, which has no formal name yet, is operating under the direction of Walter Barnes in the fraud section. The previous unit was broken up after its director, William S. Sessions, quit to become U. S. attorney in San Antonio, Tex.

Ray Gahn, one of two attorneys who helped Barnes on a part-time basis, plans to leave soon to join Sessions' staff.

A Justice spokesman said there were plans however to increase the staff of the unit to three or four fulltime attorneys once the new law takes effect.

At the congressional level, the new law allows a candidate the 10-cents-a-voter formula or $50,000 —whichever is higher— for outlays on advertising by television, radio, newspapers, magazines, billboards and nonvolunteer telephone solicitation.

However, only 60 per cent of the permissible amount may go for television and radio.

In subsequent years, the amounts may increase if the cost-of-living index rises.

Marin Man Cocaine Haul Figure

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A 22-year-old Greenbrae man arrested Friday during one of the biggest cocaine seizures ever made in the Bay Area was to appear before a federal magistrate here today.

Leighton M. Norton was arrested at 4:15 p.m. in a hotel near San Francisco International Airport with two other persons after two women under surveillance delivered 11 pounds of cocaine, the U.S. Bureau of Customs has announced.

That quantity of narcotic would sell for $500,000 to $1 million, customs agents said.

Norton was held in San Francisco city prison on suspicion of conspiracy and having narcotics until the court appearance when bail and a date for a preliminary hearing were to be set.

Norton was arrested in 1968 in Escalon, San Joaquin County, and charged with narcotics violations.

The events preceeding the Friday arrest began Tuesday when the cocaine was allegedly found taped to the bodies of Cheryl Dubbert, 21, of Los Angeles and Mary Hildreth, 22, of Cambridge, Mass. at Los Angeles International Airport.

Customs agents said the two were searched because their flight had originated in Lima, Peru, a major source of cocaine.

They agreed to go through with the delivery in San Francisco, agents said.

Arrested with Norton were Jan Goodman and Hillary Turner, both 22 and from Beverly Hills. Merle Honaker, 33, and Roger Leibowitz, 22, both of San Francisco, were arrested later, agents said.

Goodman and Honaker also were arrested on suspicion of possessing narcotics and of conspiracy. Miss Turner and Leibowitz were arrested on suspicim of having narcotics. No charges had been filefby this morning.

Miss Dubbert and Miss Hildreth were returned to Los Angeles to face charges there.

Agents said the cocaine arrest was one of the biggest ever in the Bay Area because cocaine smuggling apparently is rare. They said the largest bust of any sort was last May when five tons of marijuana was seized on two yachts.

More N. Ireland Protests Vowed

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Civil Rights leaders shrugged off police prosecutign against them Monday for staging a protest parade this weekend and said more demonstrations would be held throughout Northern Ireland on Wednesday.

A police statement said 30 leading particiants in Sunday's peaceful march in the border town of Newry would be ordered to appear in court there Feb. 16 to answer charges they violated the government's ban on parades.

The statement said a "large proportion" of those being served with summonses are civil rights leaders and members of the Northern Ireland and British Parliaments who represent Catholic districts in the Province.

A police spokesman declined to name the 30 until they appear in court. But he said they were those who were positively identified by security forces as having participated in the 30-minute peaceful procession.

UPI newsmen at the scene estimated that 20,000 mainly Catholic demonstrators participated in the march, making it the largest protest parade in Northern Ireland's 50-year history.

The demonstrators abandoned their planned route through the center of Newry at the first sign of confrontation with police blocking their way and turned back to their starting point on the town's outskirts.

The leaders of the march included Bernadette Devlin, the fiery militant civil rights leader, and member of parliament who scratched and clawed British Home Secretary Reginald Maudling last week, during a British parliamentary debate on Northern Ireland.

(In London, British officials said the government was preparing a move toward negotiations between political parties in Britain, Northern Ireland and, perhaps later, the Irish Republic. They also said the move could include a greater say for the Roman Catholic minority in running the Ulster counties.)

Newry returned to normal Monday and shopkeepers took down steel shutters they had placed over store windows along the planned parade route. Civil rights leaders in the town claimed victory in the Sunday protest march and said they hoodwinked police and British troops by turning back at the first sign of confrontation.

Meanwhile, civil rights leaders named Wednesday as a "Day of Disruption" to mark six months of internment of suspected Irish Republican extremists in the province. They said the day would include sitdown demonstrations to block traffic and other nonviolent action to disrupt the government of Premier Brian Faulkner and "bring Northern Ireland to a standstill."

They said another civil rights march would be held next weekend in Enniskillen, about 10 miles from the Irish Republic border.

The participants in the Newry march also included British actress Vanessa Redgrave.

Conviction of violating the ban on parades carries a mandatory six-month prison sentence, but magistrates can suspend the sentence if they judge there are extenuating circumstances.

Woman Is 5th To Seek Baar Seat

A Point Reyes woman, operator of a center to aid youth in the area, has announced her intention to run for supervisor in the Fourth Supervisorial District.

Kelly Fister, 44, who served in the women's Army Corps during World War II, is the fifth candidate to announce intention to run for the seat, presently helj by Louis H. Baar who will not seek reelection.

Mrs. Fister, who described herself as a welfare recipient, said she seeks redevelopment in the area, consistent with ecological considerations, and that she intends to represent the youth of the area who, she claims, are ignored by the board of supervisors.

She said she has operated a "crisis center" at Point Reyes for more than a year, providing food, clothing, housing and emergency services mainly for youth.

The youth of the county are her particular concern, she said.

Nixon Peace Plan Dead, Reds Say

PARIS (UPI) — Delegations from North Vietnam, the Viet Cong, the Pathet Lao and the Cambodian rebel movement flew into Paris today to demand peace in Indochina on their own terms. They said President Nixon's latest peace plan was dead.

The four Communist Indochina delegations flew in from Moscow on a Soviet plane to take part in a three-day, Communist-backed international antiwar assembly in Paris later this week. Spokesmen said they would not consider any portion of President Nixon's Jan. 25 peace package.

Hoang Quoc Viet, the North Vietnamese Minister in charge of relations with Parliament, said he and the other delegations were ready to denounce the Nixon plan at the meeting and said, "This meeting will be a great encouragement for our struggle against U.S. aggression.

"The U.S. attitude is still obstinate—and it clearly appears in President Nixon's so-called peace plan which all peace-loving peoples have rejected," Viet said.

The Hanoi minister said South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu's resignation would not be sufficient to lead to direct talks with Saigon and he insisted that the South Vietnamese police system be dismantled.

The Communist group arriving today included members of the Peking government-in-exile of Prince Norodom Sihanouk who was ousted as leader of Cambodia a year and a half ago.

French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann conferred meanwhile with Communist negotiator Nguyen Van Tien and said he had found "some new points" in the latest Viet Cong peace proposal put before the Paris talks on Thursday.

"I gave Schumann some additional explanations on our important declaration Feb. 2."

Tien told newsmen after leaving the Quai D'Orsay foreign ministry. "The minister was very interested and he found some new elements in the declaration."

Belotti Won't Seek Reelection

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Frank Belotti, R-Eureka, announced today he will not seek re-election.

Belotti, 73, had previously said he would seek a 12th term in the Assembly. But the veteran lawmaker said the "slow recovery" of his wife, Delphine, from injuries received in a Sept. 21 automobile accident caused him to reverse his decision.

Belotti suffered serious neck injuries in the accident, but had recovered sufficiently to return to the Assembly by the late stages of the 1971 session.

Nixon Asks Fund To Aid Job Training

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon asked Congress Monday to help get Americans off the jobless rolls by providing $2 billion for states, counties and cities to operate manpower training programs tailored to local needs.

In a special message to the House and Senate, the President essentially renewed his request of last March for such a program —one of six revenue sharing proposals which failed to make headway in the first session of the 92nd Congress.

The President told the lawmakers the need for action on job training is even greater now. "There are few issues of greater concern today, to the Congress and the President, than the state of the American econooy," he said.

When the President first sent the legislation to congress March 4, the administration was confidently predicitng an early upturn in the economy. However, the unemployment rate hovered around the 6 per cent recession level all of last year and had declined only to 5.9 per cent by last month.

The President said his program —if enacted —would help combat unemployment and increase the American worker's productivity.

"We are concerned about the individual American —concerned that he learn the skills to gain employment or learn more skills to gain better employment," Nixon said.

House Labor Panel Rejects Docks Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A congressional subcommittee rejected today President Nixon's emergency plan to force an immediate end to the West Coast dock strike, voting instead to permit him to ask for a 60-day injunction to require strikers to load certain cargo.

The House Labor panel voted 5 to 3 on party lines against Nixon's proposal to order the striking International Longshoremen's and Warehousemens' union members back to work while a three member arbitration panel would dictate settlement terms within 40 days.

Instead the group approved legislation to empower him to obtain a 60-day back-to-work court order during which the longshoremen would be required to handle all agricultural and military cargoes, plus any type of cargo intended for Hawaii.

A few moments after the subcommittee voting, Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., reported the action to the House and said: "Our information is that a settlement is imminent."

A few moments after the subcommittee voting, Rep. Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., reported the action to the House and said: "Our information is that a settlement is imminent."

The stop gap measure that was approved on a 5-1 party line vote must now go before the parent House Education and Labor Committee for action, possibly by Tuesday.

The bill was drafted by Thompson, who was subcommittee chairman. Two Republicans, Reps. John Ashbrook of Ohio and Ogden Reid of New York voted present on the proposal while Rep. John Dellenback, R-Ore., cast the lone opposition vote.

While visiting the West Coast during the weekenc, a leading senator involved in considering legislation predicted that the 121-day old strike would end within the next week to 10 days, but possibly not before government intervention.

Britain Switch To Metric Due

LONDON (UPI) — Britain, which abandoned its shillings and pence coins in favor of decimal money a year ago, will switch from quarts and yards to liters and meters by the end of 1975, the government announced today.

It said in an official white paper that there will be no sudden switchover on a "M-for-metric day" like "D-day" on Feb. 15, 1971 when Britain scrapped its old money and "went decimal."

Sen. Smith Says She Will Run Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, announced Monday she will run for a fifth term in November.

In a very brief announcement in the Senate with only a few members present, the 74-year-old Mrs. Smith ended speculation that she might retire.

Airport Now Complying With Federal Rules

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Airline spokesmen said Sunday the new federal regulations designed to prevent airliner hijackings will have little effect at San Francisco International Airport.

Spokesman for United, Pan American, and Trans-World Airlines said the firms already are in compliance with the new FAA regulations.

A TWA spokesman said the security measures by that airline probably exceeded the new requirements.

The regulations went into effect at airports across the nation during the weekend.

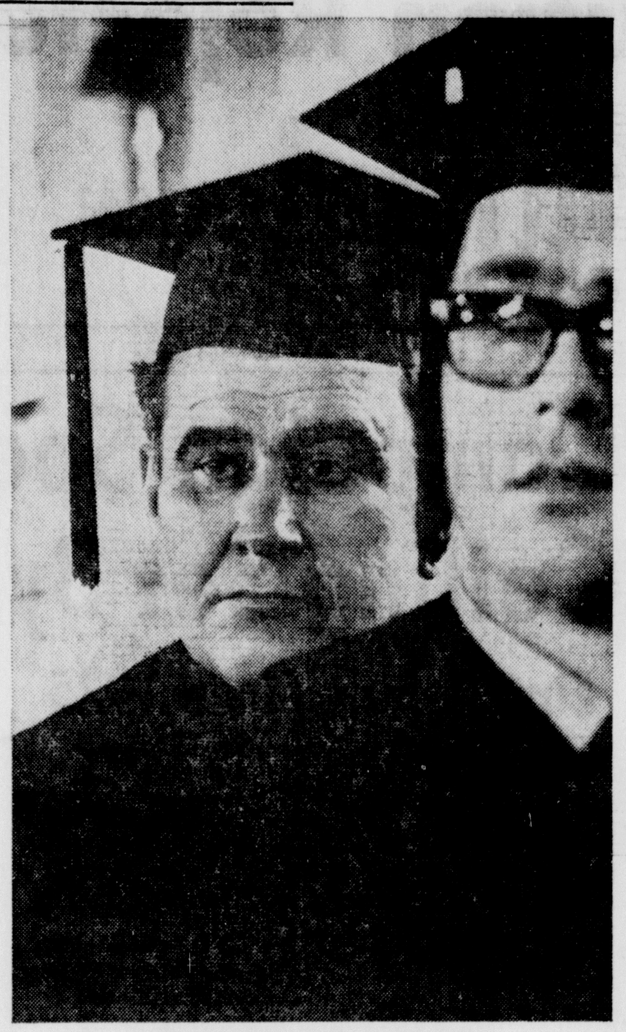

The new rules include the use of a device to detect metal on people or in luggage.

Plea On Sickle Cell Anemia

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sickle cell anemia could be discovered in some young men during draft physicals, thus sparing the military money and the individual unnecessary suffering, according to Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa.

Schweiker in a weekend letter asked the Pentagon to include tests for sickle cell anemia in its routine physical examinations of potential inductees.

The blood disease — prevalent among blacks —results in an early and painful death for nearly half of those who contract it.

House Demos Seek Closing Of Loopholes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As a price for support of the first stage of President Nixon's $50 billion debt boost, key House Democrats today demanded that Nixon commit himself to closing loopholes which closing loopholes which they said are draining off billions in tax revenues.

Unless Congress directs the President to submit such an anti-loophole plan, the Democrats said in a letter to all House members, they will vote against a $20 billion increase in the government debt ceiling recommended by the Ways and Means Committee.

The House vote comes later this week, and on past performance could be close. The increase, from $430 billion to $450 billion, is less than half the $50 billion Nixon said he must have to keep abreast of government bills during the years.

TWO-STEP APPROACH

Another ceiling increase almost surely will be needed by summer. Ways and Means Committee members recommended the two-step approach, some acting for political impact and others in the belief it would encourage fiscal restraint.

Tying the debt bill to a loophole closing provision was the idea of Rep. Henry S. Ruess, D-Wis., who recently disclosed that despite a 1969 tax reform law that was supposed to bring everybody under the tent, more than 100 multimillionaries were able to escape income taxes altogether in 1970.

The Democratic Study Group, comprising about 150 generally liberal House Democrats, grabbed the concept and 15 of its members signed a "dear colleague" letter announcing their plans to implement it.

Their estimates of potential tax losses from existing loopholes reportedly ranged as high as $50 billion yearly, though a more common estimate was $5 billion to $6 billion.

ORDER RULE

They said they would ask the House Rules Committee Tuesday to clear the debt bill to the House floor under a rule making it in order to consider an amendment requiring the President to submit by May 1 legislation that would close legal escape hatches from federal income, estate and gift taxes.

They said a similar amendment was approved by Congress in 1968, resulting in the 1969 Tax Reform Law that limited "tax preferences" but which failed its announced purpose to require that every person with substantial income drop at least some of it in the government pot.

"Now we ask the House to make the same requirement of President Nixon," they said. "If such a provision is not included in the legislation, we intend to vote against the proposed increase in the debt ceiling, and we urge you to vote 'no' also."

One tax provision viewed as a loophole by critics is the exemption for state and municipal bonds.

Nixon's Property Tax Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If it decides to propose a "valueadded tax," the administration hopes it will be able to raise $18 billion each year and cut homeowners' property taxes in half.

Those details of White House thinking were revealed in documents handed out to members of the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, one of two groups asked by President Nixon to study new ways of school financing.

The documents, obtained by UPI, indicate that Nixion hopes to accomplish two things:

—Slash all residential property taxes about in half by eliminating that part of local property taxes which now pays for operating elementary and secondary schools.

—Encourage all states to "assume virtually all responsibility" for the public schools, with help of money coming in from the value added tax instead of from property taxes.

Nixon has never talked directly of using a value-added tax —a form of national sales tax —to finance schools, but it became known that it was under consideration when he asked for a study of it.

The tax would bring in revenue at each stage of a product's manufacture, to reflect value added to the product at that step. It could, for instance, be paid at every step from the mine to the factory to the wholesale house, eventually by the retailer and ultimately by the consumer.

Levies such as sales taxes are considered regressive because they hit every consumer equally, rich and poor alike. The tax is exacted not on the basis of what the consumer earns, but on what he spends — and the poor thus are hit more heavily in proportion to the rich.

The documents indicate Nixion would hope to ease thre regressive aspects of the valueadded tax by taking about $5 billion of the anticipated $18 billion revenue and returning it to the poor in the form of tax relief.

Nixon had talked publicly of $16 billion in revenue, but the documents indicated ttinking leaned more toward the $18 billion figure. With $5 billion returned to the poor, that would leave between $12 billion and $13 billion to be returned to states to cut property taxes. Maximum grants would not exceed $400 per pupil.

Jackson Ice Bust —A Cool Gift

TWIN LAKES, Wis. (UPI)— Presidential hopeful Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., was given an 18-inch ice bust of himself as he wound up a three-day campaign swing of Wisconsin during the weekend.

"There's a real cool candidate," said Chamber of Commerce President Jerry Rasmussen, showing Jackson the ice sculpture.

Share-Wealth Bill On Tap

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A so-called "share-the-wealth" bill to limit the wealth of millionaires and the amount an individual could inherit is ready for introduction by Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco.

The measure would restrict the amount any Californian could accumulate to $2.5 million and limit the amount anyone could inherit to $1 million, except for a surviving spouse.

A similar bill by Burton last year was defeated in an Assembly committee.

U.S. Chamber President Attacks Nixon Budget As Inflationary

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. Chamber of Commerce President Archie K. Davis today criticized President Nixon's "full employment" budget and said that continued red-ink spending by the federal government insures prolonged inflation.

In remarks prepared for a meeting of the Detroit Economic Club in the motor city today, Davis said the growing size of the federal bureaucracy and the virtually unchecked power of big labor unions were the real source of the nation's economic problems.

The administration has estimated a deficit of $38.8 billion in the fiscal year ending June 30 and a $25.3 billion deficit for the following 12 months. But if the economy were running at full employment, defined as 4 per cent unemployment, the administration says the current deficit would shrink to $8.1 billion and disappear altogether in fiscal 1973.

Davis, a North Carolina banker, said this full employment concept means that "whenever there is a lag in business, government runs actual deficits but when we reach full employment, there are no surpluses.

"Continued growth of government, accompanied by ever-recurring deficits, simply provides a built-in mechanism for upward prices," he said.

Davis said the wage-price control program had set reasonable goals but achieved "questionable performance." He especially criticized the Pay Board for approving wage settlements above its 5.5 per cent pay increase guidelines.

Bill Would Transfer Toll Bridge Control

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to transfer control of six Bay Area toll bridge crossings from the state to the Metropolitan Transportation Commission was introduced today by Senate president pro tempore James R. Mills, D-San Diego.

The measure would not apply to the Golden Gate Bridge, which is run by a special six-county district.

The six are the San Rafael-Richmond, San Francisco-Oakland, San Mateo-Hayward, Dumbarton, Benicia-Martinez and dual Carquinez bridges.

In a provision certain to be opposed by the State Division of Bay Toll Crossings, the Mills bill would leave it up to the Bay Area commission whether to transfer to itself control over the bridges.

His measure also would allow transfer to Los Angeles County of the Vincent Thomas Bridge and to San Diego County of the San Diego-Coronado Bay Bridge.

The Metropolitan Transportation Commission was created by the 1970 Legislature to require regional coordination of transportation in the nine-county Bay Area.

Rash of Burglaries Is Solved

A rash of auto burglaries early yesterday as well as a couple of residential burglaries the week before apparently were solved yesterday with the citing of two San Anselmo youths to juvenile authorities.

At least nine automobiles — most parked on Redwood Road — were burglarized by the two youths, police said, and one pickup truck was set on fire.

One of the boys was seen in the area during the night, and a stolen fur coat was found at his home when police went to question him yesterday, officers said. Further investigation revealed other stolen property, including tools, tape recorder, tapes, and camera equipment at the house, police said.

Identity of the youths, aged 14 and 15, was withheld by police on orders of Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court.

Auditor's Convention To Start

The 58th annual County Auditor's Association Convention — the first major governmental conference to be held in Marin — will kick off tomorrow at 8 a.m. with a golf tournament at the Peacock Gap Country Club.

The convention, which will draw state and county financial officers from throughout California, will run through Thursday at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael.

The convention will get down to business at about 2 p.m. tomorrow with an address from State Controller Houston I. Flournoy.

He will be followed by Ernest D. Mendenhall Jr., vice president of Sutro and Co. and Gerhart Mehner, chief of general accounting for San Diego County, who will speak on "Deferred Compensation and Public Employees."

On Wednesday, the morning is scheduled for association business such as election of officers for next year and the afternoon for tours of Sausalito and San Francisco.

Thursday will be devoted to lectures and panel discussions on new state tax legislation and "auditors' problems."

The convention will end Thursday evening with a banquet at Holiday Inn. Michael Mitchel, Marin County auditor-controller, will act as host.

Suspicion Of Arson In Blazes

Fires broke out in three bedrooms of a Novato home at about the same time last night, causing about $4,500 damage, and leading police to suspect arson.

The blazes at the six-room, wooden frame home of GOrdon Lee Collins, 783 Clausing Avenue, were reported at 8:35 p.m., according to Fire Chief Jack Kidder.

Shari Lynn Lynch, 13, of 791 Clausing Avenue, a babysitter, and 3-year-old Nikki Collins, lone occupants at the time, escaped without injury, the chief said. Collins reportedly was away at a church dinner.

Novato police, investigating arson, said the blazes appeared to have been set at seven places in three bedrooms with "undetermined materials."

Miss Lynch told officers she was watching television when she smelled smoke, went to Nikki's bedroom, saw smoke and picked up the child and left.

The fires were started in two closets, bedding and mattresses, police said.

Chief Kidder estimated damage to the house at $3,000, including smoke damage, and $1,500 to contents, mainly beds and clothing.

San Rafael Woman Overdose Victim

A 25-year-old San Rafael woman was taken to Marin General Hospital Saturday for treatment for an overdose of pills, San Rafael police reported today.

According to police, Sherry Clark of 1400 Second Street, Apt. A, called a friend, Ronald Harvey Landis of 35 Fairfax Street, Apt. 19, San Rafael, to report she had taken the pills. Police forced their way into her apartment and took her to the hospital when they found her semiconscious, police reported.

Meeting On Ridge Pact

Objections to an agreement between the Marin City community and California Development Co. over valuable city ridge property will be considered by the Marin City Council when it meets at 8 p.m. today at Manzanita Center. The council, in conjunction with other Marin City organizations, will prepare a list of specific objections to the pact, for presentation to the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The agreement, reached after two days of negotiation with the New York-based development firm, would give the community a share of the profits from development of the 167-acre ridgeland and allow residents to participate in planning and development.

Watson Plan On Taxes Hit By Behr

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Los Angeles County Assessor Philip Watson's ballot initiative to fix limits on homeowner and business taxes was branded today as a "Trojan horse" by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

The initiative, which qualified Friday for the November ballot, would limit property tax assessements to 1.75 per cent of market value and shift all welfare and school costs to the state, among other things.

Behr acknowledged that the initiative "sounds like the answer to a property taxpayer's prayer, but there are hidden defects in the initiative which will produce only financial and administrative disorder."

Revenue to fund the new state programs, he noted, wuld come from increasing the sales tax by two cents, corporation taxes from 3.4 to 11 per cent, cigarette taxes from 10 to 20 cents per pack, and hard liquor tax from 50 cents to $2.50 a gallon.

Behr disputed Watson's prediction that these increased taxes will result in a $687 million surplus, pointing instead to an estimate by Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post that it would leave a $696 million deficit. It would be very difficult to close the deficit, the senator said, especially since the initiative also would require a two-thirds vote by the Legislature to hike taxes.

Behr also scored the initiative for providing too little money for schools. The current level of support to schools is $911 per average daily attendance, a sum the initiative would cut to $285, he said.

The senator also criticized the initiative for failing to provide for renter relief and for providing "a huge windfall to corporations with large land holdings and insurance companies." He cited Post's estimate that insurance companies would pay $147 million a year less in taxes under the initiative.

Marin's other legislator, AssemblymanWilliam T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, also has denounced the Watson initiative. Attacking what he argued would be its unfair boon to big corporations, Bagley has said that "if you liked the Lockheed loan, you'll love the Watson initiative."

School Board Sets Closed Meeting

The San Rafael Board of Education will meet in closed session at 7 p.m. tomorrow at the schools office to discuss reappointment of principals and other administrators for next school year.

Following the closed meeting, the board will conduct its regular meeting begining at 8 p.m.

A presentation on the Nexus program at San Rafael High School will be made by teacher Walter Belden and Principal Peter Palches. The program is a "school within a school" operating with about six teachers and 150 students, according to Supt. John F. Plank.

The board also is expected to adopt a resolution declaring an emergency situation at Santa Venetia Middle School. The resolution is required to expedite plans for reconstruction at the school partially hit by arson on Christmas Day.

Catherine Diane Duerner, 21, of 438 Wellesley Avenue, was held at Marin County Jail in lieu of $250 xail on the warrant and $350 bail in connection with her arrest on suspicion of possessing dangerous drugs and narcotics paraphernalia. She was scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Police said they stopped her at 3:20 a.m. today at Lincoln Avenue and Irwin Street because there was no light on the rear license plate of the car she was driving.

A check revealed the warrant, charging her with possessing bad checks. A hypodermic needle was found in her purse, police said, and a hypodermic kit and a white powder, believed to be drugs, were found in the glove compartment of the car.

Old Bolinas-Stinson Plan May Be Junked

The Marin County Board of Supervisors tomorrow will consider a request that it junk the 1961 Bolinas-Stinson beach master plan which envisions the two communities as some day having a population of 20,000.

A proposed interim ordinance which would limit new growth while a new plan is drafted will be considered at the same time.

Both proposals have been endorsed by the county's planning commission, which agrees with West Marin residents that the old plan is "frightening."

The board's meetings will be held in room 254 of the Hall of Justice for the next three Tuesdays due to remodeling of the supervisors' regular meeting room.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors' agenda also includes:

KAISER-AETNA — Setting a hearing date (probably Feb. 22) for a hearing on rezoning about 18 acres in Marinwood for the 109-unit Kaiser-Aetna condominium development. The developers are expected to also request approval of their master plan.

APPOINTMENT — A request from Philip S. Ehrlich Jr. that he be reappointed to the Marin County Housing Authority board. Ehrlich is a former chairman of that board.

MILEAGE — A proposal to increase the mileage rate paid county employees who use their private vehicles for county work and proposed changes in funding the county motor pool.

Bus Depot Reopening On Agenda

Hopes of reopening the San Anselmo bus depot will be discussed by the San Anselmo City Council tomorrow.

Councilman Lewis W. Stewart put the item on the agenda, following Marin County Transit District's decision last week to subsidize several depots, in cooperation with the cities in which they operated.

The depots in San Anselmo and Fairfax closed last month when the Golden Gate Bridge District took over commute bus routes from Greyhound. San Anselmo's depot had been operated by senior citizens on a commission basis under a contract with Greyhound.

At tomorrow's meeting, which will begin at 8 p.m. in the city hall, the councilmen also are expected to name their selections for a citizens advisory committee on the housing element of the city's general plan, as required by statelaw.

Appointments also are scheduled for vacancies on the city planning commission and library board.

Can brownouts or blackouts happen here?

There's plenty of electricity here today, and, as the chart shows, there's plenty in construction or planned to meet growing public needs and consumer demand through 1979.

There have been no brownouts or blackouts here because PG&E has built new electric facilities on schedule as needed.

But if our construction program is slowed down unduly or stopped, there definitely can be brownouts or blackouts here. We build ahead to prevent such problems. And we must continue building, because nowadays it takes about 10 years to acquire a suitable site, obtain regulatory approvals, construct and get a new power plant "on the line."

There are individuals and groups who are trying to slow down or stop construction of electric plants and transmission lines. Some even claim growth and progress are at an end or should be, and that therefore more electric power capacity is not necessary.

The fact is that power demands are going to continue to increase. And PG&E must meet these demands reliably and on time or there will be power shortages. We are doing our job now and are ready, willing and able to keep on doing it. Moreover, qualified, competent and responsible public agencies assure that in doing so we serve the best public interests, including environmental and ecological considerations.

To keep your electricity on tomorrow, PG&E must build today.

Pope Again Speaks Out Against N. Ireland Violence

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI spoke Sunday about the bloodshed in Northern Ireland, telling his audience in St. Peter's Square, "Violence is against the law of God ..."

"We pray that all forms of violence be avoided—from any side—and that peace and justice are reached by the ways of reason and good will," the pontiff added.

"We all know of the present painful situation of a country which is dear to us, Ireland, where today there is taking place a march for civil rights at Newry, in Northern Ireland," the pontiff said.

"Our love makes us anxious," the Pope said." We observe with sorrow the acts and threats of violence there."

The pope spoke before the civil rights march at Newry which the British government vowed to halt with reinforced army troops. The marchers stopped when they saw British troops, avoiding violent confrontation.

It was the second time in as many days the Pope spoke publicly on the situation in Northern Ireland.

Saturday he sent a message to Cardinal William Conway, the primate of Northern Ireland, which contained "an appeal for "no more violence."

The Pope also mentioned his meeting Saturday with U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim and voiced support for the U.N. peacekeeping mission in the world.

"Once again, we have been able to observe the high aims which it (the United Nations) proposes, first among them that of educating the world to concord and collaboration," the Pope said.

The pontiff said tha United Nations is a "great and fragile" edifice which needs "the confidence and support of all, so that it can truly prevent and settle the world's conflicts and promote and defend the rights of man."

U.S., Russia May Join In Space Dock

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (UPI) — U.S. Astronauts and Soviet cosmonauts could be working together by June 1974 in a Russian space station orbiting 186 miles above earth, a manned spacecraft center spokesman said Sunday.

The 14-day mission has been planned in virtually every detail in a 249-page, $300,000 study coomissioned by the space agency from North American Rockwell Corp.'s space division, the spokesman told the Houston Post.

The study suggests three astronauts in an Apollo spacecraft could be launched from Cape kennedy, Fla., at 1 p.m. EST June 14, 1974 or 1975 to rendezvous and dock with a Soviet Salyut space station.

The Apollo would carry a special docking adapter the size of a small car to lock with the Russian ship.

The Salyut would have been launched from a site in Russia Three days earlier and would be occupied by three cosmonauts who docked their Soyuz craft with the station before Apollo arrived.

Apollo crewmen would require a day to dock with Salyut and would spend the next two days working jointly with Cosmonauts from the Soyuz docked at the opposite end of the station.

Plans call for three, two-man round trips between Apollo and Salyut, with each visit lasting three hours. Television cameras would relay the first meeting back to earth.

Following the joint mission, the astronauts would undock and descend to an orbit 177 miles high to conduct earth resources experiments for 11 days. The cosmonauts would remain board Salyut.

The spokesman said representatives of both countries have been planning the mission for more than a year and a mockup of the 8-foot, 3-inch by 4-foot, 8-inch special docking module had been constructed at the space center.

The last joint docking conference was held in Moscow in December and results of the meeting were kept secret.

The report says the 1974 launch date could be met with "minimum flexibility" and the 1975 date would allow for more options.

The docking module would have windows, food, lights, communications and a waste disposal system to accommodate the astronauts while they adjust to the differences in atmospheres in the U.S. and Soviet space vehicles.

Soviet spacecraft use anitrogen-oxygen mixture at sea level pressure of 14.7 pounds per square inch, while U.S. Spacecraft use pure oxygen at only 5 pounds pressure. Each transfer between the station and Apollo would require an adjustment period of two and a half hours in the docking canister.

Photos Exhibited

An exhibition of photographs, featuring the works of two San Anselmo photographers, will be on display through the end of this month at Ross Valley Savings and Loan Association in San Anselmo. The works of Lucile Dandelet and Ernest Braun — consisting of studies of the civic center and of flowers — are among the photographs in the show.

Tam High's Freshman English Course Due Study

The freshman English program at Tamalpais High School criticized as too innovative will be discussed by the Tamalpais High School District board at its regular meeting Monday.

Edward Faber of Mill Valley complained to the board in December that not enough emphasis is being placed on fundamentals in the freshman classes so the board ordered a full report. The report outlines the course content and plans to continue it.

The issue will be discussed at 8 p.m. in the Redwood High School faculty lounge after a closed dinner session at 6:30 p.m. at Sabella's Restaurant to discuss firing a teacher.

Among other items to be discussed at the open session will be policy regarding free expression by students. Such a policy is now required by law.

Boston Job 'Excites' Ozawa

BOSTON (UPI) — Seiji Ozawa says he is "very excited and very happy" to have the chance to lead the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Ozawa, named music director for three years beginning in the fall of 1973, attended a reception Sunday where he chatted with reporters and orchestra supporters. It was announced last Wednesday that Ozawa will take over the Boston position while remaining as music director of the San Francisco Symphony.

Ozawa said previous commitments will prevent him from being with the Boston Symphony for more than one week during the 1972-73 season, but he plans to be here for 10 weeks in 1973-74 and about 14 weeks the next season. He said that would allow him to "keep the character of the orchestra going," while not allowing the orchestra members and the public to get "too tired of me."

Thuy, Rogers Disagree On End Of War, POWs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Hanoi's Xuan Thuy and U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers disagree on how to end the Indochina war, and how the United States can recover prisoners of war.

"Why doesn't President Nixon make a statement stopping commitment to the Saigon administration and then the Vietnam problem would be very rapidly settled, both political and militarily," Thuy said Sunday.

Rogers retorted "it is not the Saigon regime we're supporting. We're supporting the people in South Vietnam so that they can decide their own future."

Thuy and Rogers were interviewed in separate half-hour segments on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation."

Thuy denied that Hanoi was using the prisoners as pawns to gain concessions from the United States. "It is Mr. Nixon who uses the POWs as pawns, not us," he said.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield insisted today that the administration should make a straight-forward offer of setting a specific troop withdrawal date conditioned solely to the release of POWs.

"I am not interested in what North Vietnam may agree to or what South Vietnam may want," the Montana Democrat told reporters.

He said such an offer as embodied in his frequently offered end-the-war resolution would best serve the "vital interests of this nation."

If the approach failed "nothing would be lost" and a different offer could be devised, Mansfield said. "The only way to find out is to try," he said.

Thuy, Vietnam's chief delegate to the Paris talks, also asked why it was necessary for the North Vietnamese to allow a team of medical experts tend to the captives who may be sick or hurt.

"If now we let those people visit camps it might help Mr. Nixon in his aim..."

Rogers said the North Vietamese have been arbitrary in discussions about release of the prisoners...

"They have said, 'we won't return your POWs unless you throw out the government in Vietnam and meet our other considerations.' It has never been any other way," Rogers said.

On military problems, the secretary said, Hanoi has been unyielding in making demands that would not lead to settlement, but complete defeat of the United States in Vietnam.

Early Marriage Tied To Cancer

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Girls who engage in sexual intercourse in their teens may be more likely to develop cancer of the cervix? according to a medical researcher.

Dr. Duane E. Townsend said that Spanish-speaking women in the mostly Mexican-American area of East Los Angeles develop cancer of the cervix at a rate two to four times as great as the national average.

Townsend, of the University of Southern California, blamed the higher rate on the tendency of Mexican-American girls to marry young, saying that apparently the cervix is more sensitive to cancer-causing factors in the mid and late teen years.

S. Viets Kill 4 Cong Leaders: Fighting At Cambodia Temples

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese militiamen hurling grenades and firing rifles stormed a bunker near Phu My in the Central Highlands Sunday and wiped out the Viet Cong leadership of Binh Dinh province, military spokesmen said today.

Communist forces hit the Central Highlands provincial capital of Kontum with rockets today and there were reports of heavy fighting in southern Laos and in Cambodia near the storied temples of Angkor Wat. Brisk firefights were reported from one end of South Vietnam to the other.

No Americans were reported involved in the flareup of ground fighting but one American was killed and five injured Sunday when a shell exploded inside their 175 millimeter gun near Hue, 390 miles north of Saigon.

South Vietnamese military sources said the South Vietnamese militiamen killed six Communists, including four top leaders, in the attack in Binh Dinh province, the Viet Cong's most formidable stronghold in South Vietnam.

The report, if true, would be a shattering blow to the Communist National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong. Binh Dinh was the birthplace of North Vietnamese Premier Pham Van Dong and is the region where Ho Chi Minh built up his Communist apparatus in the 1920s.

UPI correspondent Kate Webb reported from Phnom Penh that Cambodian government troops supported by allied bombers fought off a North Vietnamese ground attack today less than three miles from the 8th century temples of Angkor Wat.

The report coincided with afront page newspaper report in Phnom Penh that indications were the Viet Cong was trying to set up an autonomous state in Angkor and install the government of Prince Norodom Sihanouk, now in exile in Peking.

The newspaper reports said it would be better to invade and risk damaging the temples than to risk a Sihanouk government being set up there. The Communists have held the temples since June, 1970.

UPI correspondent Pon Chantaraj reported from the Laohian capital of Vientiane that a North Vietnamese regiment with mortar and tank support attacked and overran the key government position of Dong Hene in southern Laos on Sunday night.

Sonoma Cities Ask Closer Land Planning With County

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — City officials Saturday called for closer cooperation from Sonoma County on planning unincorporated land fringing on city boundaries.

The main request at the day-long city-county conference came from Petaluma as it asked county help in carrying out its new limited growth policy.

Petaluma Planning Director William C. McGivern said the new policy will limit growth to 500 new living units per year as part of a five-year strategy plan to control and distribute growth.

City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer warned that county planners must cooperate and limit development around Petaluma if the plan is to succeed. "We'll need very close cooperation or the plan will be an exercise in futility," Meyer said.

Sonoma Supervisor Ignazio A. Vella countered that cities wouldn't be troubled by uncontrolled growth if they simply controlled the extension of utilities. He said that if cities didn't make sewerage and water available, the county would be in a better position to reject requests for subdivisions.

Lawrence Andrew, executive officer of the Sonoma County Local Agency Formation Commission, told Meyer that in the future all annexation requests must first be presented to the city involved before going to the commission. He said that cities should then have more control over what lands are annexed and how they are developed.

George Kovatch, county planning director, told the 70 officials that the county general plan is in its first stage and that city representatives will be asked to participate on several committees.

He said the total cost of the plan has been estimated at $1.3 million and that the first phase cost of $335,000 has been assisted by $90,000 in state and federal grants. Kovatch said he believed that more grants would be available later to help with the expense.

Kovatch said the entire plan should be complete in 18 months and that smaller but more intense studies may be done then on the Petaluma area and the land around the future "Lake Sonoma."

In the afternoon session, Andrew said new legislation has given the local agency formation commission more authority in planning. He said that in the future all annexations must first be prezoned by the city involved.

County Administrator David L. Nichols told the city officials that the county tax and revenue picture has been dismal and should not improve in the near future. He said that 42 cents of the 49-cent county tax increase was directly related to higher costs for welfare and medical care.

Nichols said that while the state requires the county to provide the services, it does not pay its share of the obligation.

Top Nixon Aide Says Foes Aid, Abet Reds

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Presidential aide H. R. Haldeman said today that some of the critics of President Nixon's Vietnam peace proposals were "consciously aiding and abetting" the Communists. Haldeman, one of Nixon's key advisers often described as "chief of staff" at the White House, said, "I think there is the question here sometimes of putting partisanship above peace."

Haldeman did not mention names but left little doubt he meant some of the Democratic presidential candidates when he said:

"Partisan critics are consciously aiding and abetting the enemies of the United States . . . We have a very clear offer out. It makes all the points that the critics have sought except one — putting a communist government in South Vietnam. The only conclusion you can draw now is that the President's critics want to put a Communist government in Saigon."

Haldeman repeated under questioning the charge of some critics "consciously aiding Communists "in this particular posture."

He was interviewed on the NBC-TV Today Show.

The interview was recorded several days ago but reflected strong administration reaction to criticism of the Jan. 25 Nixon peace plan, much of it by Sens. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and George S. McGovern of South Dakota.

In the Senate today, Sen. William E. Brock III, R-Tenn., continued the GOP attack. "I ask my colleagues, I beg them," said Brock, "to resist the temptation to allow pride or opportunism or shame to overcome reason" in discussing the outlook for Vietnam peace.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield criticized Haldeman's statement. "The First Amendment still stands and freedom of speech is still allowed," Mansfield told reporters. "As far as I am concerned, any senator will be protected in his right of free expression."

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, however, said that "some of the Democratic candidates are using strong language" and they could expect strong language in reply.

Scott said that except for Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and and Henry M. Jackson, Democratic candidates had been violating "the Vanderberg tradition that politics stops at the water's edgz." He was referring to the late Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, R-Mich., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and an architect of the nation's bipartisan foreign policy after World War II.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., told a reporter, when asked about Haldeman's remarks:

"It sounds like the old Nixon re-emerging for the 1972 campaign."

"Nixon feels on the defensive about a possible enemy attack coming up in South Vietnam." Cranston said. "So he's taking the offensive here at home. That's typical of Nixon."

Haldeman was asked who he referred to in making his charge. "I don't want to characterize any individual," he said. "In expressing a personal opinion, I think it will fall where it applies."

One of the Democratic candidates, Sen. Jackson of Washington, however continued to criticize party rivals for attacking the Nixon peace plan, while Eugene J. McCarthy chided Muskie for his record with respect to Vietnam policy.

Shop Center Sign Plan Due Study

A revised proposal for sign standards at the Montecito shopping center will be considered by the San Rafael City Council when it meets at 8 p.m. today at city hall.

Standards previously set by the city's planning commission met opposition from merchants who appealed the standards to the city council, which last month returned the standards to the planning staff for revision.

A formal agreement prepared by City Atty. Fred E. Robbins for exchange of parcels at the city's old corporation yard on Francisco Boulevard with auto dealer Hercules Viglienzone also is scheduled to be considered tonight by the council.

Norris M. Rawles, director of public works, will present a plan and timetable for converting A, B, C and D streets to one-way streets. The action was previously approved by the council, but implementation was delayed ntil after the Christmas shopping season.

$74,000 Goes For Fake Plants

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Los Angeles County has a benevolent climate, year-round sunshine and is one of the most fertile agricultural areas of the world.

And it has plastic plants.

The County Road Department revealed that it is spending $74,504 to install fake plants along a boulevard. The plants feature plastic foliage on stems and trunks made from disguised steel pope. There was not enough dirt left to support real plants when workers got through installing a culvert, the road department said.

The county will plant its counterfeit greenery in a make-believe "lawn" of rocks and cement, painted green.

Man Treated For Gun Wound — Won't Talk

A Petaluma man suffered gunshot wounds of the right hand and hip yesterday, but has refused to give police details.

Walter S. Blackwell, 59, of 22 Myrtle Court, was reported in satisfactory condition at Hillcrest Hospital. Police said the shooting occurred at his home at 8:45 p.m.

Blackwell told police he had accidentally shot himself while cleaning a .38-caliber revolver, but police Lt. Dennis De Witt said the right-handed man could not have shot himself in the right hand and hip.

A companion in the home, Joyce Ann Peterson, 44, was arrested on an Alameda County warrant charging her with violation of parole. De Witt said she has also refused to discuss the shooting.

Many Destinies In Nixon's Visit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Richard M. Nixon sets out Feb. 21 for a historic meeting with the leaders of China. Their initial policy objectives are modest but the ultimate results could shape for generations the destinies of many nations and millions of people.

Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai have said that the summit discussions are designed primarily to begin the process of "normalizing" relations after 22 years of embittered isolation.

While this is an obviously necessary first step, it could in itself have considerable impact on the policies of countries that have been accustomed to play Washington off against Peking and vice versa.

Chinese and Americun leaders obviously have their own ideas for how to take advantage of improved relations to futher their long-term objectives in Asia and other areas.

Nixon is understood to belive that the possibility of achieving a quadrilateral balance of power involving the United States, China, Russia and Japan will improve as Peking moves more positively into the mainstream of world affairs.

A number of eminent students of Asian affairs believe this is Nixon's new design for Asia. While under a White House injunction not to discuss such specifies, high administration officials indicate a quadrilateral power balance is the sort of idea the President has in mind.

They also point out that such a plan would appeal to presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger, the former Harvard professor upon whom Nixon appears to lean more and more for foreign policy guidance.

Kissinger's approach requires that each major U.S. move fit into a broad master plan designed to achieve Washington's objectives by the most effective application of power, prestige and persuasion at all possible points.

Nixon has said that he will not try to achieve better relations with China at the expense of other nations, another way of saying the United States would honor its 1955 commitment to protect Taiwan against aggression. His statement also was an effort to convince the Soviet Union that the United States did not intend to connive with Peking against Moscow.

The very fact that Nixon is going to Peking already has stirred the suspicions of the Russians, however. Real friendship between China and the United States would involve a major reassessment of the international power balance.

Kissinger himself has said that Russia's continuing conflict with China probably would make the Kremlin more willing to reduce tensions on her European front.

Chou has made it clear in turn that Peking's concern over Soviet and Japanese intentions was a strong factor in the decision to seek improved relations with the United States.

Many experts think the situat on appears to offer real possibilities for a four-power balance that would bring greater stability to Asia.

Others are not so sure.

Doak Barnett of the Brookings Institute, a life-long student of Asian affairs, believes such a balance already is evolving and that "there will be severe limits on the extent to which any of the four powers will be able to manipulate the balance to its own advantage."

He discounts to a great extent the possibilihy of "collusion" between any of the four to try to upset the equation. The Chinese obviously do not agree. They fear an eventual alliance between Japan and Russia which would recreate the situation that enabled Japan to seize half of China in the 1930s and 1940s.

Dr. Herman Kahn, director of the Hudson Institute, also has raised the possibility of some alliance between Russia and a resurgent Japan armed with nuclear weapons.

Earl C. Ravenal of the Institute for Policy Studies, formerly chief of the Defense Department's Asian Division, believes any four-power balance in Asia would be subject to recurrent crises stemming from continued U.S. military support of the Taiwan government.

He would rectify this by having the United States recognize China as having sovereignty over Taiwan, abrogate the U.S.-Nationalist Mutual Secu rity Treaty and withdraw the few American troops remaining on Taiwan.

Some Chinese Nationalist officials suspect this may be Nixon's ultimate decision, despite present assurances of continued support for the Nationalist government.

Officials and scholars here are uncertain just how Peking plans to play her long-range cards. As noted earlier, they assume Peking's concern over the possible intentions of her neighbors was a major factor in Chou's decision to meet with Nixon.

The Chinese premier has spoken of the peril posed by one million Soviet soldiers and 1,000 Russian warplanes guarding Russia's 7,000-mile border with China. Chinese leaders are believed to fear the possibility of a pre-emptive strike by conventionally-armed Soviet bombers against Peking's rapidly expanding nuclear war potential.

What the administration does not know—and what Nixon presumably hopes to explore in Peking —is how far China will go toward establishing friendly relations with Washington as a hedge against Soviet hostility and the possibility —real or imagined —of Japanese expansionism.

Kissinger said after his second visit to Peking that Nixon and the Chinese leaders intended to restrict their discussions to issues between the two countries, excluding problems involving third parties. Kissinger said this meant there would be no real discussion of Chinese-Soviet relations or the Vietnam War.

China Catching Up With Nuclear Arms

LONDON (UPI)—China has no illusions about the Soviet Union's great armed might so it has geared its own military strength to meet any attack from the 4,000-mile-long Sino-Soviet border.

Aside from its conventional arms effort, Peking is trying to establish an adequate nuclear potential for delivery of missiles as well as for defense.

China exploded its 13th nuclear test since 1964 on Jan. 7. It was of low yield, in the 20-kiloton range, but observers say it might have been the explosion of a device designed to trigger a hydrogen bomb.

The nation has considerable resources of natural uranium and an atomic energy plant.

The International Institute for Strategic Studies here reckons that China now has sufficient fissionable material for 120 nuclear weapons, but that its limited delivary vehicles include only 30 TU16 medium bombers with an operational range of only 1,500 miles.

The institute said China has apparently deployed, mainly in northwestern and northeastern China, about 20 operational missiles with a range of up to 1,000 miles.

China is reported to have been testing medium range missiles since the 1960s and to be pushing for an intercontinental ballistic missile. But as far as is known, China has still some way to go before it can start production of ICBMs.

In 1970, a new missile testing site began operating in Manchuria, allowing for flights of up to 2,000 miles into the Singkiang Desert. Peking's main nuclear installations are situated in that province.

China's current conventional military strength, according to the institute:

An army of 2,880,000 compared with Russias's 3,375,000; five armored divisions, two airborne divisions and 110 infantry divisions. The U.S.S.R. has 51 tank divisions, of which 10 are on the Chinese border.

China has 2,800 planes, mostly of obsolete Russian design and production. A twin-engine fighter is being developed by Peking while production of the Soviet-type TU16 medium bomber is being increased. China has some 30 of these bombers and is building about five a month. The TU16 can deliver nuclear weapons.

The Chinese are producing the Soviet-designed MIG21 fighter and T59 medium and T62 light tanks. At least one nuclear-powered submarine also is under construction, according to the institute.

Llewellyn Thompson Dies; Former Envoy To Russia

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Llewellyn E. Thompson Jr., twice U.S. ambassador to Russia and known for being a shrewd negotiator in sensitive jobs, died Sunday after a long illness.

Thompson, 67, succumbed at the National Institutes of Health. The NIH clinic said Thompson was "quite ill" and had been a patient since Jan. 31.

His wife, the former Jane Goelet, was at the hospital when he died, NIHSAID. After Thompson's death, caused by cancer, Secretary of State William P. Rogers issued a statement praising him as "one of the outstanding diplomats of his generation." He added, "Both President Nixon and I miss his sage advice.

Thompson, semi-retired, had been the top Soviet affairs adviser in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations. He twice served as ambassador to the Moscow—from 1957 to 1962, and from 1967 to 1969—and was holder of a presidential award for distinguished federal civilian service.

LLEWELLYN THOMPSON
Long service

Thompson was an ambassador at large from 1962 to 1967, when President Johnson tapped him to return to Moscow as part of a program to seek better relations with the Soviet Union.

The ambassador, who had held several sub-ambassadorial posts in Moscow in the 1940s, said at the time that "having been here for nine years, it feels like returning home."

Born in Las Animas, Colo., "Tommy" Thompson entered the Foreign Service in 1929, a year after he graduated from the University of Colorado. He deferred marriage until the age of 44, when he wed Mrs. Goelet.

As a junior diplomat in the U.S. Embassy in Moscow during the first half of the decade of the 1940s, Thompson gained a reputation as an expert on Soviet affairs and as a shrewd negotiator in sensitive jobs.

He was awarded the U.S. Medal of Freedom for staying at his post in October, 1941, when the Nazi armies were at the gates of Moscow and most of Foreign Diplomats had moved to Kuibyshev.

UAW Asks Court To Force Pay Hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The United Auto Workers (UAW) asked a federal court today to force the government Pay Board to reverse itself and honor in full the union's contracts covering 30,000 aerospace workers.

Another union, the International Association of Machinists, said it would file a similar suit next week for its nearly 200,000 members working for aerospace firms.

UAW president Leonard Woodcock told a news conference that the Pay Board had acted "unfairly and irrationally" in denying the two unions the full 51 cents-an-hour, 12 per cent pay raise during the first year of the three-year contracts with the aerospace companies.

The board denied the full raise but said it would approve 34 cents-an-hour (an 8 per cent increase) the first year of the contracts and delay the additional 4 per cent until the second or third year.

But Woodcock said the 34 cents-an8hour increase was actually part of the previously expired contracts, which provided for that much in a cost of living increase over the past three years payable whenever the old agreement expired.

He contended the 34 cents was not subject to Pay Board control and should be added to the old average hourly pay of $4.30 before computing the additional 17 cents-an-hour increase provided as part of the new contract.

With the new base of $4.64 per hour, Woodcock said the 17 cents-an-hour increase was well below the board's 5.5 per cent guideline, which would have allowed an increase up to 26 cents per hour.

Filipino Device Would Put Patient To Sleep

MANILA (UPI)—Four Filipino electronics experts are experimenting on an electronic device shaped like a stereo amplifier which will induce sleep in a patient and permit surgery without anesthesia.

Danile C. Ferrer, one of the inventors of the device, called Dormitron, said the electronic anesthesia apparatus can turn a person "on" or "off". The device employs electronic signal currents in the audio spectrum.

Impulses transmitted through two electrodes connected to the subject's temples swirl around the person's brains and depolarize the neurons, a group of nerve cells responsible for transmitting and receiving nervous impulses.

Depolarization of the neurons, Ferrer said, is a process by which the natural state of the neurons are disturbed, resulting in a person falling asleep and rendering him insensible to pain.

Helicopter Lifts Youth To Safety

A U.S. Coast Guard helicopter, guided by spotlights from Marin County Sheriff's cars, picked a University of California student from the rocks at McClure's Beach last night, after he had fallen and injured himself while hiking with two friends.

The youth, Charles Burton, 19, of Kidd Hall at Berkeley was reported in good condition today at Cowell Memorial Hospital at the university, with cuts and a sprained ankle.

A Coast Guard spokesman said a helicopter from San Francisco was dispatched because Marin County Sheriff's deputies could not reach the youth by auto and carry him out. The beach, about six miles south of Tomales Point, is accessible only after a long walk on a narrow trail.

The helicopter picked Burton up at about 8:30 last night and flew him to the SFO heliport in Berkeley where he was transferred to an ambulance and taken to the UC hospital. Sheriff's deputies used their car spotlights as vectors to guide the helicopter to the youth.

MARIANNE MOORE
Mourned, praised

Marianne Moore Dies; U.S. Poet

NEW YORK (UPI)—Marianne Moore, a slight but striking woman who celebrated the old Brooklyn Dodgers and phenomena of the plant and animal world in poetry of wit, erudition, and grace was mourned and praised Sunday by a president and a poet.

Miss Moore died Saturday. She was 84.

President Nixon said in a statement: "We can be grateful that the splash of color and enchantment which she added to the Western world will brighten our landscape for many years to come."

And W.H. Auden, a British-born poet, now an American citizen, said that Miss Moore was a "marvelous person,' whose poetry he admired very much. Auden said that Miss Moore's poetry had influenced his own—an influence an Auden poem written for Miss Moore's 80th birthday acknowledged.

Miss Moore, a Pulitzer prize winner who always appeared in public wearing a black tricorn hat, had been at times throughout her life an editor, teacher and librarian as well as poet.

She loved to talk about the affairs of the day. Of miniskirts, she said: "They look stingy." She said the Vietnam War" really takes the heart out of me."

Her poems talked often of plants and animals, and her love of baseball and the old Brooklyn Dodgers—both she and the Dodgers used to live in Brooklyn—inspired her to write poems about the sport.

In "Hometown Piece forMessrs. Alston and Reese" Miss Moore extolled her team and its fans, however talented or flawed:

"And would the Dodger Band in 8, row 1, relax

"If they saw the collector of income Tax?

"Ready with the tune if that should occur:

"Why Not Take All of Me — All of Me, Sir?"

Sierra Club Feeling Pinch

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Directors of the Sierra Club have scheduled a special meeting Friday to discuss economy moves for the nation's largest conservation organization.

Budgetary problems dominated the club's quarterly directors meeting Sunday.

Despite a membership of 135,000, the directors agreed new programs have outstripped dues revenue and a continuing deficit has resulted.

Some of the moves discussed Friday might affect the club's book publishing program and its new campus liaison project.

"Our income is down from what out budget projections show," said Executive Director J. Michael McCloskey. "It's quite a pinch."

Israel Would Open Canal—No Strings

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Israeli newspaper Haaretz said today Israel is prepared to let Egypt reopen the Suez Canal without a formal agreement, but the Arab world was so angry over the sale of more U.S. jets toael it was uncertain whether this would ease the Middle East situation.

The Beirut newspaper Telegraph headlined, "Smell of War Rises from Phantoms and Skyhawks Washington is to Sell to Israel." And the Cairo newspaper Al Akhbar said the United States and, Israel were common enemies of the Arabs, linked in an alliance.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, reported under Soviet pressure to tone down his militant position, conferred today in Benghazi with Premier Col. Moammar Khadafy of Libya to explain his efforts to reach a peaceful solution.

Sadat has just returned from visits to Moscow and Yugoslavia where communiques stressed that the Middle East conflict should be settled peacefully. Khadafy has said war is the only way to regain occupied Arab lands, a theme Sadat espoused before his Moscow visit.

Al Akhbar said Sadat and Khadafy also were discussing means of dealing with "the Arabs", common enemy, respresented in the alliance between the U.S. and Israel.

Sadat visited Damascus Saturday and then flew to Libya for today's talks. Political sources in Beirut said the Syrians showed understanding of Sadat's more doveish position.

Paris reports said meanwhile France and Israel have reached virtual agreement on the resale of 50 Mirage jet fighters to France for about $75 million. Israel bought and paid for the jets but then President Charles de Gaulle imposed an embargo on their delivery during the 1967 Six Day War

New Currency Rate May Hike Tourism

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Travel Service estimates that the new international currency exchange rate agreement will increase by 25 per cent the foreign tourist trade in the United States.

Based on the new exchange rates, which make most currencies more valuable in relation to the dollar, the travel promotion arm of the Commerce Department has amended its tourism estimates upward from 2.9 million visitors to 3.2 million this year.

WALKING AWAY from the seaplane that she used to take the test qualifying her for a seaplane pilot's license is Gloria Hinon. FAA inspector Mike Sacrey (left) was pleased with her performance during the half hour she demonstrated her skills in the sky over Sausalito and landed in Richardson Bay.

(I-J photos by Jim Kean)

'I WOULD GO up with her again anytime," said FAA inspector Mike Sacrey, as he made out a seaplane pilot's license for Gloria Hinon of Los Molinos in the Sausalito office of Command Seaplane Service. The woman learned to fly in Ketchikan Alaska, and plans to get an instructors license in the future.

HOME ECONOMISTS

The Business World Is Opening Doors

By BARBARA HOSMER

The wide opportunity for home economists to find careers in the business world was illustrated Saturday when four women with such careers spoke to the Bay Area District of the California Home Economics Association at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael.

Speakers were a field home economist for the Overseas Service Corp., a food marketing consultant with her own business, a kitchen design specialist with her own business and a research home economist for a South San Francisco-based spice company.

THE IDEA was to point out that home economics students still in school have a wider range than the traditional teaching, dietetics, foods and clothing to shoot for when they graduate. In fact, the home economists in business agreed that the field is opening up in new directions with increasing emphasis on good design and an expanding food industry, which is becoming the fourth largest national industry.

Carolyn Campion of Mill Valley opened the program by explaining the background she gained toward her current job as home economist with Overseas Service Corp. in which she travels to 15 Western states speaking to military wives and working with food service clients and contractors. Usually they are military commissaries.

Miss Campion took a degree in home economics and journalism at Iowa State College and was trained by General Mills in the Betty Crocker kitchens. She gave career talks to students, did public relations and wrote recipe copy for booklets. Next she worked on recipe development in test kitchens, working on mixes for pie crust and casseroles. That job included package design and marketing campaigns for products. Then it was the flour division, creating advertising campaigns tying in flour with other foods.

Next she became copywriter for the Pineapple Growers Association through its advertising agency in San Francisco. Travel through 13 Western states followed with her job with the U.S. Department of Agriculture as children's food service consultant.

"That was probably my most rewarding job," she said, because the people in the child care centers and migrant worker camps were so appreciative of the help she could give on meal planning and kitchen setup.

ELIZABETH ERMAN of Belmont, Spice Islands home economist, emphasized the variety of jobs within a job the home economist may be doing. A University of California graduate in foods and nutrition, she did test baking research on varieties of wheat at the USDA laboratory in Albany, baking cakes, breads and cookies with different flours. If the product was good, the wheat might be worth growing commercially,

She's One Of A Select Group - Seaplane Pilot

By JOAN LISETOR

The weather over Richardson Bay was gray and gloomy. A shiny red and white seaplane circled overhead, then slowly descended into the bay near the Command Seaplane Service office at the Marin Heliport.

Pontoons glided gently through the still water; the plane come to a halt alongside the dock; and out climbed a trim blonde woman, who quickly grabbed the lines and tied the plane to the dock.

Inside the plane sat a man, making no move to help the pilot.

He nodded, and her joy became apparent because Gloria Hinon had waited a long time to qualify for seaplane rating, and the FAA inspector, Mike Sacrey, was pleased with her performance.

"SHE DID just fine, real well," the inspector said. "Better than the last three or four applicants I have had."

The pilot came from her home in Los Molinos, just north of Chico, for a brush up lesson last week from Chriss Hansen, who operates the seaplane service. The inspector came from his office in Oakland, where testing for conventional pilot licenses usually takes place, to the Sausalito site, the only place in the area where a pilot can take a test for seaplane rating.

"Some of the other inspectors were giving me a bad time about having to go all the way over to Sausalito in the rain," Sacrey said.

"And for a girl," the pilot added.

"To tell the truth I had forgotten it was for a woman," he said.

The inspector said he thought there were approximately 1,000 women licensed to fly seaplanes.

"But that is not many when you consider there are at least 100,000 men," he said.

AS THEY walked on the long pier to the office Gloria remarked she did not know if it was the cold or her nerves that were causing her to shake.

"Let's go into the office and get down to the business of making out the license," the inspector said.

Gloria was born in Kansas and grew up in Oakland and San Luis Obispo, but it was far away in a remote corner of the world that she took her first seaplane flying lesson.

"I took my first lesson on Mother's Day last year in Ketchikan, Alaska," the mother of two little girls said.

She was living on the island in southeastern Alaska, where her former husband was employed by the telephone company.

"There just wasn't much to do for entertainment, so I started taking lessons flying float planes," she said.

Seaplanes are popular in the northwestern United States because they are used by hunters and fishermen to land in remote areas.

GLORIA KNEW only one other woman seaplane pilot in Alaska, she said. Although she had 90 hours of flying time in Alaska, she could not take the test there because the instructor did not have his seaplane equipped with all of the gear which is necessary for an original pilots' license test.

Shortly after moving back to California in October, Gloria got her private pilot's license. She is working on a commercial license, necessary because she plans to go for an instructors' license.

Piloting a seaplane puts more responsibility on the pilot, according to the inspector.

"It is a cross between flying and boat handling but tougher because you have to make a decision on what direction to land, taking boat traffic and currents into consideration," he said, while filling out the license.

"Your signature please," he said, handing her the pen.

And Gloria Hinon, signed, officially becoming a seaplane pilot.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Naughty Movies May Never Come Back To The Maker

DEAR HELEN:

Would I get arrested if I sent in my movie film to be developed, and would a commercial company develop it? It's of nudes and things like that.—MR. THOMAS

DEAR MR. T.: (Does your first name begin with "P" as in "Peeping"?)

It all depends on the "Things like that." (Commercial film processors are allowed by law to destroy "pornographic" films sent in by customers, and the decision rests with the company. If your nudies are naughty, you'll receive a letter saying they are forever gone — but you won't be arrested.

Smaller, privately owned outfits may do your films — at a price.—H.

DEAL HELEN:

I had a "satisfactory" marriage for more than 15 years. Never a problem about finances, status, even health; rarely an argument, and then quickly settled. But not much fire either. I had the opportunity to stray but didn't. Then it happened!

When I first met this wonderful "other" woman, I knew what I'd been missing. After a month of fighting with mq conscience, I strayed. It was truly a dream come true.

The awakening came seven weeks later. Suddenly she announced, "I think I'll get married later in the year." The woman I thought had been completely true to me was walking out of my life. I felt like an empty shell.

After 18 months, I still can't get over her. I tried to call. She got an unlisted number. I send her gifts and letters. She does not acknowledge them, and she may not receive them, as she has moved. (Naturally I put no return address on my correspondence; I couldn't chance their coming back to my house.)

How can someone profess "love" and then so quickly turn it off? Am I better off with my marriage that is based on mutual understanding, or should I seek another great passion to destroy the memories?—NUMBED

DEAR NUMB:

Haven't you learned yet that "great passion" doesn't wear as well as mutual understanding?

Ask yourself this question: "If my wife threw me out, would I be as desolate as I THINK I am right now?" And before she does, I'd suggest you try working up a bit of passion at home.—H.

DEAR HELEN:

Equality between men and women on the job is still far from here! Consider this:

I worked as private secretary to the president of a good-sized company, and I had a great deal of responsibility. When things became rough financially, I and other secretaries took our 20 per cent cut along with the men. Then came the time for the company to hand out stock — and we women were left in the wings. We were told that secretaries were not allowed to have stock, but even the men in the factory got in on the bonanza.

Another situation cropped up. The men were sent to California to help the company sell a trade show. I had invaluable knowledge and could have been of great assistance — and at first I was promised a chance to go. Then — thumbs down! It seemed that the general manager said it would cause talk — a woman travelling with men.

Helen, I've left that company, but I feel a grave injustice has been done me — and others who will follow me may receive the same treatment. Whom can I contact to stop this discrimination?—EXECUTIVE SECRETARY

DEAR SECRETARY:

Contact your local branch of the National Organization for Women (NOW), or write to national headquarters: 1957 East 73rd Street, Chicago, Ill., 60649.

You might also alert the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, headquartered at 1800 "G" Street, N.W., Washington, D.C., 20506.—H.

Chiropractor Feud Simmering Again

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — The running feud between medical doctors and chiropractors is about to break out anew in hearings already under way by the Senate Finance Committee on the Social Security bill (HR 1).

The question will be whether to include chiropractic among the health expenses paid by Medicare. There are some 24,000 chiropractors in the United States, and all but two states — Louisiana and Mississippi — license them. Approximately 5 million people visit chiropractors each year.

According to the International Chiropractors Association, chiropracic is "that science and art which utilizes the inherent recuperative powers of the body" primarily through manipulation of the spine. It uses no drugs, but some practitioners employ and sell various devices for treatment.

The American Medical Association has led the fight to block Medicare payments to chiropractic practitioners. The AMA contends that chiropractors commonly use spine manipulation to treat ailments that are not related in any way to the spine.

FOUR FEDERAL insurance programs began to cover chiropractic fees in 1960 but discontinued doing so in 1966 because of disputes over fees. Accredited medical schools do not recognize chiropractic.

In 1968, the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare issued a report on the subject, concluding that:

"Chiropractic theory and practice are not based upon the body of basic knowledge related to health, disease and health care that has been widely accepted by the scientific community." It added:

". . . the scope and quality of chiropractic education do not prepare the practitioner to make an adequate diagnosis and provide appropriate treatment." The report said chiropractors were treating many ailments which were not related to spinal problems.

The last time the case for chiropractic in Medicare was made before the Senate Finance Committee was in September, 1970. At that time, William S. Day, a state senator in Washington, and president of the International Chiropractors Association, said such ailments as ulcers, migraine headaches and hepatitis were outside the legitimate scope of chiropractic.

A medical consultant to the National Association of Letter Carriers, one of the organizations dropping chiropractic from health insurance coverage, reported cases of measles, mumps, cardiac disease, ulcers, tumors, cancer, mental disease and others accepted by chiropractors for treatment.

Yet, according to the doctor, Charles K. Holmes, of Washington, D.C., the X-rays upon which these diagnoses were based were of inferior quality. He said over half were unfit for any diagnostic purpose. He said that another expert found only one spine defect in 300 sets of films.

ONE OF the leaders of the battle against chiropractic is Dr. Stephen J. Barrett, a psychiatrist from Allentown, Pa., and chairman of the Lehigh Valley Committee Against Health Fraud Inc.

He has submitted results of a survey to the Senate Committee showing that all but a few of the chiropractors contacted by letter said they would treat a hypothetical case of ulcers accompanied by migraine headaches.

In response to another letter posing a case of hepatitis, 68 per cent said they would continue treatment or welcome the patient. There were 182 replies to both letters. Among the replies were many claims of success in treating these problems.

Despite the opposition, the chiropractor lobby has been growing; even the AMA is worried that the chiropractors will get what they want unless a sudden wave of grass-roots support develops for the AMA position.

Second Only To Christmas Mailings

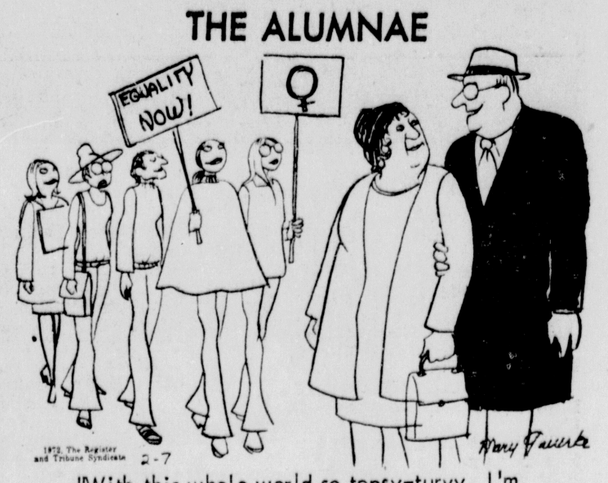

More greeting cards are sent and received at Valentine's Day than on any occasion except Christmas. The average American sends five of them. And since 1972 is a Leap Year, an extra-large volume of valentines is expected to go through the mails this year.

Some 80 per cent are sent by women, often signed, "guess who?"

Merely A Custom

You may not have to change your name when you marry. Doing so is merely custom, not law, in over half the states, including California. A woman in these states can keep her maiden name or use both her own name and her husband's, according to Seventeen magazine's new booklet on marriage. But rulings may exist within state-affiliated groups that do require a woman to give up her name. Stick to one name, whichever one, the booklet advises for legal purposes.

Here's what parents discovered about the new Sullivan approach:

"Joe had two and a half months, and the change is incredible! He has moved to a top reading group; he gets 100 in spelling tests; and he can handle social studies assignments with ease. Best of all, he now enjoys reading!"
Mrs. J. W. Mell, Jr., Palo Alto, CA.

"For the first time in his life, Evan really seems interested in reading and doing the workbooks. I am sure that the good basic skills which he received during the course will stand him in good stead with his fourth grade work. Already he seems more confident with his work in school."
Mrs. E. B. Towne, Belvedere, CA.

"Leon had reading problems for two years. I had tried other sources of help with no success. At the Sullivan Center, there was a change within ten days—Leon wanted to read, and he never did before! I don't think there is a child who can't learn from this Sullivan system. It's worked a miracle in my own home!"
Mrs. M. Cofferata, San Francisco, CA.

"Before enrolling in the program, Gary read with considerable difficulty. He often guessed at words he did not know how to sound out. That has all changed now, thanks to the personal attention and the immediate reward in the Sullivan program. He reads smoothly and with enjoyment."
Mrs. B. Wilson, El Cerrito, CA.

BUSINESS

she said. She also worked with fortified wheat to test for flavor differences.

She found she needed a strong chemistry background, and remarked that such laboratory testing is methodical, not creative work.

With the Dairy Council of California in Fresno she roamed 15 counties, working with people on nutrition and in-service training with college, schools and community groups.

Now she tests stability of spice products and recipe development and is beginning food photography. She also helps with label design and development of new products, and handles all consumer inquiries, which are "getting heavier and heavier," she said.

"I've spent eight years in the field and still find it exciting and that lots of opportunities are there. We have to create our own opportunities," the home economist said.

JANINE SCHAETZEL of San Francisco explained how she runs her own kitchen design consulting and planning business, finding the ability of seeing her work from the drawing board to completion in people's home satisfying.

Also a home economist, her work now keeps her behind a drawing board much of the time, but she said it has been necessary to keep abreast of all new furnishing products for paneling, flooring and appliance development. She said that courses in architecture, engineering school and art helped. She emphasized the need for studies in design and color as well as merchandising, having done home furnishings selling for a Chicago store. She now designs kitchens mainly for the homeowner, but said related fields might be design of industrial and school kitchens and feeding facilities.

BETTY IMES of Sunnyvale explained her own business as consultant in food service marketing as helping the food service retailer to know the product market and how to get set up for good low-cost service, and personnel management. She began her business after a strong home economics background in food service with United Air Lines in Denver and operation of her own restaurant and catering business there.

She and two men went into business last fall because she felt "people were having lots of problems in the food service industry" and a consultant could help.

The morning panel was headzd by Mrs. Sue Chelini, program chairman, and Redwood High School home economics teacher.

Valentine's Day Has Long History

Valentine's Day goes back over 1,700 years. It is supposedly named after Valentinus, a Roman priest martyred on Feb. 14, 264 A.D., for refusing to renounce Christianity. Before his execution, he wrote a farewell note to his jailer's daughter signed "from your Valentine."

The first modern valentine was sent in 1415 by Charles, Duke of Orleans, when a prisoner in the Tower of London, to his wife. Commercially printed valentines first appeared in England about 1800 and were usually illustrated with cupids, turtledoves or lovers' knots, according to a greeting card manufacturer's research.

Man's earliest production of man-made cloth was through the use of cellulose, but today he makes many fibers without using cellulose through chemical processes. Acrylic, spandex, nylon, polyester, saran, rubber: these are just a few non-cellulose man-made products. We're lucky that man is so resourceful, because non-cellulose fibers are very strong. Usually they do not allow dirt to penetrate easily, they are non-allergenic, and they dry quickly.

Today more and more women are making clothes for themselves and their families. UNUSUAL OPENING

Few experts would open the West hand with three spades since the hand is well worth an opening bid of one. South's bid of four hearts is equally doubtful, but South was unlucky to find his partner with so much spade strength and so little on the side.

West opened the jack of spades, and dummy's queen won the first trick. Declarer led a low trump from dummy, and West won with the king. After some thought, West decided to lead another spade in the hope that his partner could ruff out one of dummy's high cards.

THE RIGHT RUFF

When West returned the ten of spades, declarer put up the king from dummy. East had to ruff; otherwise South would discard a diamond and lead another trump. Declarer would eventually get rid of another diamond on the ace of spades, and the defense would get only their three trump tricks.

East felt confident that his partner had started with seven spades for his shutout bid. This meant that South was ready to overruff if East ruffed low. It also meant that West was aware of the overuff situation. East could not gain by ruffing with a small trump; South would overruff and lead a trump.

East found the right ruff by playing the queen of hearts. South discarded a diamond, and East shifted to a diamond at once. This fine defense settled declarer's hash.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ - 2
♥ - J 10 9 4 3
♦ - A J 6
♣ - A J 10 5.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart.

This is a borderline case, and a pass would be recommended if you lacked the two tens and the nine in your long suits. It is much safer to open light and get out early than to pass and then have to get back into the auction at a high level.

Work Floats Being Sought

A Mill Valley construction company has applied for Coast Guard permission to place temporary work floats beneath the Richardson Bay bridge for two successive periods of about three months each.

The floats would be used to aid workmen widening the bridge, and would be equipped with a draw section which would be closed during working days, but which could be opened on two hours notice.

Interested parties who would like to express their views or objections on the project may write to the commander of the 12th Coast Guard District, 630 Sansome Street, San Francisco 94126 by Feb. 14.

Art On Display

A display of religious art works by Mill Valley artist Ann Griffith is being shown at Westminster United Presbyterian Church, Tiburon, through Feb. 13.

American Music's Come A Long Way

By ROBERT NESS

American music has come a long way in 200 years. Dramatically illustrating just how far, the Marin Arts Quartet juxtaposed a composition by contemporary James Adair with one by colonial John Christopher Moller at its concert yesterday afternoon.

A Respighi piece for soprano and strings, featuring Margot Power, and a Dvorak quartet rounded out this fascinating well attended program at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley.

James Adair's Quartet No. 3, Opus 71, which was given its premier performance yesterday, is a composition with considerable power and a genuine individuality.

The quartet members dug into its highly complex rhythmic structure with gusto. No wasted note can be found in the four short movements of this atonal diatonic work with its carefully constructed dissonances set within a rich (atonal) harmonic framework.

Condescending Europe of 1770 would have judged the Moller quartet a simplistic, colonial boor. It still is an ideal model for Mozart's satirical "Musical Joke." Dull imitative entrances occur at the beginning of nearly every phrase and fade into totally mundane cadences. Most frustrating was the beginning of the first movement's development section. The cello led into a dramatic and exciting harmonic change only to peter out into utter nothingness.

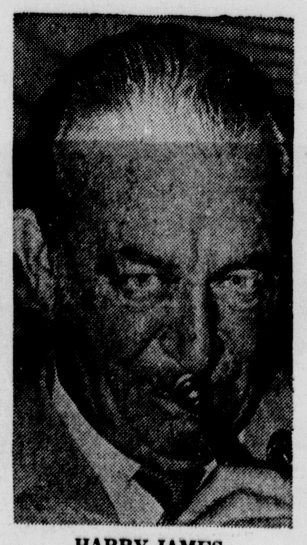

But this Moravian composer, who among other things made numerous public appearances performing on Benjamin Franklin's glass harmonica, was a pioneer in a new world. In that new world his music, though primitive, had considerable merit for the times.

Soprano Margot Power joined the quartet for a definitive performance of Respighi's "Il Tramonto, For Voice and Strings." Based on selections from P. B. Shelly, the composition represents themes of life, death, love, and finally peace. Miss Power's rich, dark, soprano voice and deep musical feeling for this work resulted in a very moving performance.

Dvorak's G Major Quartet concluded the program. Haunting melodies and dramatic virtuosity permeate this work. HarHarmonies constantly slip into the distant and mystical keys so characteristic of Dvorak.

With the exception of some intonation problems in the treacherously high passages, the quartet played this with great warmth and musical drive.

It was a beautiful and interesting second program by this fine group. The third and final concert of the season will be presented May 14 at 3 p.m.

Soprano Of Miss Caton Has Rhythm, Brightness

A warm glow permeated soprano Caolyn Caton's evening of song Saturday night at Dominican College's Caleruega Hall.

Assisted by pianist Phyllis Murphy, violinist Carol Tomlinson and cellist Wendy Tomlinson, Miss Caton sang a highly diversified program ranging from Purcell to Barber for an appreciative near-capacity audience of about 100 persons.

Her voice, though not particularly large, is beautifully bright and especially well-suited for the articulate works of Purcell, Handel and Mozart as well as the animated songs of Wolf and Debussy.

Rhythm — traditionally a singer's plague — is Miss Caton's tour de force. She not only is completely secure in it, but also uses her sensitive articulation of rhythmic phrasing as one of her most powerful expressive devices.

Four arias from Handel's "Neun Deutch Arien" for violin, cello, and piano were superb ensemble works. The arias, representing the more structured "German" music of Handel, were performed with a brisk clarity.

Whimsical songs by the late Romantic lieder-composer Hugo Wolf were given a personal grace by Miss Caton. The teasing and naive "In dem Schatten meiner Locken" had a charm rarely heard.

Even though the brightness of her voice is not ideally suited for such heavy stuff, the dark, serious songs of Wolf were remarkably expressive. They exemplified Miss Caton's considerable vocal control, although in these more sustained songs her diction suffered from a lack of applying the necessary energy to the German consonants.

Miss Caton's voice and Phyllis Murphy's sensitive piano playing were perfect in the delicate, fragrant Romantic songs of Debussy. "Fleur des Bles" and "Mandoline" were exquisite. Miss Caton, however, could have anticipated the sensuous arrivals in "Beau Soir" more effectively. Marvelous bass notes in the piano are carefully prepared and require a special rhythmic anticipation by the singer — a stretching and lengthening. She didn't quite give enough here.

The Samuel Barber songs were highlighted by the dramatic "Sleep Now" based on a James Joyce poem. With angular vocalizations and dramatic power.

"L'amero, saro costante" from the early Mozart opera "Il Re Pastore" provided the crowning close to the evening. This dramatic aria with violin obligatto makes virtuosic demands on both singer and violinist.

Harry James Visits The Past With Big Vets Building Crowd

By IRA KAMIN

Harry James and his 16-piece band on Saturday night carried a near-capacity audience of 1,800 into the past on a wave of melodies vade bittersweet by time.

About 90 per cent of the audience in the Veterans Memorial Building had danced to James' crystal-clear trumpet during the 1940s. The few youngsters in the crowd apparently came out of curiosity or in an effort to close the generation gap.

The memories and music conjured by the 60-year-old band leader and former husband of Betty Grable hit every heart in the place and the band received a standing ovation after its concert of two hours and 15 minutes.

James guided his musicians — a mixture of young longhairs and older men from the swing era — through songs that once drifted from radio as jingles now pour from television.

From his own theme "Ciri Ciri Bin" through such Duke Ellington standards as "Satin Doll" and "Take the A-Train," James had the audience humming along and enjoying every second.

For a while it was a game of nostaglia, as each song began to a wave of whispers in the audience. "Jersey Bounce," one man poked his neighbor. Another guessed "Sentimental Journey" before James played two notes.

Besides having all the memories going for him and a fine band, James is a good showman. And as good as he is, his drummer, Sonny Payne, is better.

Payne is a veteran of Count Basie's band and one of the best big band drummers alive. He gives the James band its swing. But like a clown among figure skaters at the Ice Follies, Payne's talent is almost forgotten while one is absorbed in his antics.

He twirls the sticks under his legs, lets them fly 10 feet in the air, and never misses a beat.

He and James are the driving forces of the band, but they are helped out by tenor saxophonist Corky Corcoran and saxophonist Dick Simpson.

Corcoran has been with the James band for years. His melodious solo of "That's All" and his sporadic duets with James delighted the audience.

Perhaps the best soloist in the band is the young, Charlie Parker-influenced Simpson. Already a refugee from the Maynard Ferguson and Thad Jones big bands, the 30-year-old Simpson showed a lot of technique and maturity in solos on "Caravan" and "Opus One."

The band played slightly more modern arrangements of old instrumentals like "Tuxedo Junction" and "Don't Be That Way," and did some mellow swinging through "Moonglow" and "Cottontail."

Pianist Jack Perciful best captured the relaxed feeling of the band by leaning back and looking absolutely bored while playing some first-class jazz piano.

The audience responded most of all, however, to the vocals which were handled very well by Rita Graham.

The stunning Miss Graham is an ex-Raelette with the Ray Charles band and has developed her own style with the hit songs of the 1940s.

Her medley of "You Made Me Love You," "I Cried For You" and "It's Been a Long, Long Time" closed an evening that could be called a successful search for lost time.

Bay 'Home' To German Liner

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The German liner Hamburg steamed under the Golden Gate Bridge Sunday to make San Francisco her American home port.

The white-hulled, 638 foot ship, the first German-flag passenger ship to be completed in West Germany since 1938, is owned by the German Atlantic Line. It marked the first time a German luxury liner called here since the mid-1930s.

The liner is scheduled to leave today for the first of two Caribbean cruises.

A dozen boats, including the fireboat Phoenix, greeted the Hamburg when she arrived.

Hughes Book 'Transcript' Said To Be 18 Years Old

NEW YORK (UPI)-A transcript with marginal notes in Howard Hughes' handwriting that Clifford Irving used as proof that an autobiography of the billionaire was authentic may be 18 years old, Newsweek magazine reported Sunday.

An agent of Intertel, Hughes' intelligence network, claimed the transcript originally may have been used as the basis for a long profile on Hughes that appeared in Look magazine in 1954, Newsweek said in an article in its current issue.

Stephen White, who wrote the Look article, confirmed that tapes and transcripts were made of his Hughes' interviews in 1954, Newsweek said, and that he thought he remembered that Hughes had made handwritten corrections. White, however, said he thought all that material had been burned years ago.

Irving, who showed the transcript to McGraw-Hill Book Co. to prove that he had met with Hughes in a series of interviews, was scheduled to appear before a federal grand jury today.

The grand jury, investigating whether mail fraud or other federal offenses are involved, summoned Irving and his wife Edith to testify behind closed doors on the book that cost McGraw-Hill $650,000 in advance payments. The company thought the money was going to Pughes but Edith Irving deposited it in Swiss Bank accounts.

Danish Baroness Nina Van Pallandt, a blonde Folk singer, said in London she expected to fly to New York Tuesday to appear before the grand jury.

She has stated that she was with Irving during a five-day visit to Oaxaca, Mexico, last year when he claims to have had one of his interviews with Hughes. The Baroness, however, said she was with Irving almost constantly and did not see how he could have met Hughes.

Warrants for the arrest of both Irvings have been issued by Swiss authorities on charges of fraud and forgery. Proceedings to extradite Mrs. Irving, a Swiss citizen, were started Saturday. But U.S. Government sources have indicated they want to complete their investigation before considering the extradition.

Writer Richard Suskind, who said that as Irving's research assistant he met Hughes and discussed organic prunes with him, left Spain aboard an Iberia airliner for New York today to appear before the grand jury.

To Speak Saturday

Dr. Gordon Chan of the biology department at the College of Marin will speak at a public breakfast meeting of the National Educators Fellowship, a Christian educator's organization, at 9 a.m. Saturday at the Holiday Inn in Terra Linda.

Marin Pianists' Compositions, Poets Combine During Recital

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Well-known Marin pianists' work as composers in collaboration with Marin poets was the focus of attention at Saturday night's first of two annual scholarship benefit recitals presented by the Marin Branch of te Music Teachers Association of California.

An overflow audience made it necessary to place extra chairs in the choral hall of the College of Marin Fine Arts Building.

Robaline Meacham and Margaret Davis were the pianists who revealed the lesser known composing aspects of their talents.

Mrs. Meacham's work consisted of seven poems to music, with Marin poet Rosalie Moore Brown reciting the verses — two of them, "Parade with Piccolos" and "Height," her own — while Mrs. Meacham played her piano settings. Assisting effectively were her husband, violinist Charles Meacham, and cellist Jan Gauder.

A former graduate student of composition at Mills College under Milhaud, Mrs. Meacham's work did not show any particular influence of this master composer, for he is known to allow his students to develop their own individuality. Being a poet, Rosalie Moore Brown had the requisite feeling for rhythm to read the verses musically and with good enunciation.

Margaret Davis accompanied her own five songs for soprano at the piano and they were sung by Jeanne Kostelic with nice appreciation of the mood and meaning of the words of the poems — all of which except for one anonymous piece, were written by women poets such as Edna St. Vincent Millay. "The Civilized Rabbit" by Marin Musician and writer Sibyl Schneller, was the only delightful bit of humor of the evening.

Mrs. Davis' music, more traditional in sound than contemporary — was especially well adapted to the works. While Mrs. Kostelic sang them well, these simple songs gave no idea of her full stature as a singer as heard in other concerts.

The program opened on a mostly quiet and somber note with three — Nos. 47, 123 and 104 — of Liszt's Sonettos del Petrarca played by pianist David Kortkamp. They were unusual work for this composer who is a master of sensational pianism, and Kortkamp was most successful in the slow, soft lyrical passages.

Concluding the concert was a sprightly performance by duo pianists Marcele Gallez and Joan Grant of Vittorio Rieti's Suite Champetre. Consisting of three early rustic dance forms of French, Scot and English origin, they are written in a lighthearted modern idiom by Vittorio, a sort of Italian elder statesman of the contemporary period.

Plans For Marist Land To Be Given

A controversial four-way subdivision and four use permits for the Marist seminary — vacated by the Marist fathers because of declining enrollment — will be presented to the San Rafael Planning Commission tomorrow.

The commission also will review plans for a proposed tennis club in an unincorporated area on the north side of Fifth Avenue near Mount Tamalpais Cemetery and consider several use permits, including one for a KTIM radio transmission tower on Smith Ranch Road, when the planning commission meets at 7:30 p.m. in city hall.

Plans to subdivide the St. Peter Chanel Seminary has drawn criticism from some Dominican area residents who claimed the proposed ballet school, private tennis club, church and lodge meeting hall would increase noise, traffic and parking congestion.

The Marist fathers said they could no longer afford the nine acres on Grand Avenue and have relocated in Berkeley.

Neighbor Denies Gun Episode

Stone Marston Uhl, 20, of San Geronimo, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

A preliminary hearing was set for tomorrow.

Uhl was arrested Saturday after a bullet was fired through the kitchen window of the residence of Douglas M. Luna, 23, of San Geronimo.

Sheriff's deputies said Uhl and Luna had argued earlier in the day outside Luna's home and when Uhl left, he is reported to have told Luna, "I'm going to come back to kill you."

'We Must Defuse Population Bomb'

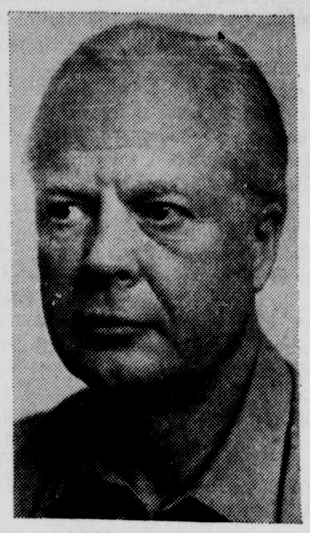

By JEFF GREER

Doomsday will dawn in 1975, according to a briefcase full of data compiled by Norbert Olsen, a chemical engineer who lives in Novato.

According to Olsen's charts and figures, in that year — unless the birth rate curve is flattened out — the world's population will reach the crisis point at which makind can never hope to keep food and energy production increasing as fast as the population. Unless "zero population growth" is achieved by 1975, "governments will crumble faster than they can be formed" while nations scramble for food, energy and living space, Olsen predicted. He said his findings are supported by Stanford's Paul Erlich, author of "Spaceship Earth," and many ecologists and other scientists.

Olsen's graphs incicate that in all of man's thousands of years of existence, Earth's total population did not reach one billion until 1830 A.D., doubled to two billion by 1930, hit three billion by 1956 and will reach the four billion mark by 1975.

If unchecked by famine and pollution or other causes, the world's population will be a staggering six billion by the year 2000, Olsen's graphs indicate.

NORBERT OLSEN
Seeks stable population

Olsen said Saturday that the best answer he can offer is a worldwide birth control program he estimated would cost $9.5 billion a year.

Taking a leaf from the chain-reaction growth of population, Olsen, who lives at 151 San Felipe Way, has been spreading his warning via the chain letter technique. He asked each person who agrees with his views to spread the word to five or 10 or more others. "One man has sent out 28 copies of my dats," Olsen reported.

The Novatan reported he's also sending copies of his paper to "the two most powerful people in the world today — The Pope and Chairman Mao Tse-tung of China."

Though there may be objections on political and religious bases to the concept of world-wide birth control, Olsen insisted "the only answers are in the mathematics" of the population bomb. "It's a mighty big flywheel" and the concerned citizens of the world must begin slowing it, the Novatan said.

Asked how compulsory birth control could be accepted in a democracy, Olsen replied, "that's a loaded question." But I don't believe any mother wants to see her son starve." The world's women will see the need and exercise powerful influence to halt the population rise, Olsen declared. "It's not a case of whether it's got to be done — it's when," he added.

Olsen said he began to realize the population danger in 1960, when he decided "I could work 24 hours a day creating fertilizers and new ways to help produce food, and it still wouldn't meet the need."

During trips to Scandinavia, England and throughout the U.S., Olsen talked with scientists and sociologists also concerned about the problem. He began gathering all the data he could, plotting it on engineering paper.

All his charts show parallel, steeply rising straight lines for population growth, energy demands, water depletion, financial inflation and other factors in modern society.

Olsen has been a chemical engineer since he graduated from Purdue University 31 years ago. For the past three years he has been with the mining and minerals section of Bechtel Co. in San Francisco — where he has become increasingly concerned, he said, that "we're using up our natural resources like there will be no tomorrow."

He first presented his ideas to 270 students at San Marin High School in Novato during the school's first "Earth Day" in 1970.

His good reception at the seminar convinced him that "students are more serious nowadays than they used to be," Olsen said.

Olsen does not believe it is too late to defuse the population bomb. "We've got the people and the resources," he said, to come up with a program.

Ballot Measure On Agenda

The Corte Madera Town Council will consider asking the voters to decide whether the town's clerk and treasurer should be appointed at its regular meeting today.

Meeting at 7:30 p.m. at town hall, the council will decide whether to place on the April 11 ballot a measure that would make the posts appointive. Town Clerk Betty S. Behel and treasurer Frank Bigley are running unopposed for reelection on that ballot.

Also to be discussed today is rezoning a 7.5 acre parcel at 200 Tamal Vista Boulevard from R-4, multiple dwelling, to light industrial.

Fabric Missing

Wool fabric valued at $330 was discovered missing from the House of Fabrics in the Corte Madera Shopping Center at 3:55 p.m. Friday, Corte Madera police reported today.

AMTRAK'S PROGRESS

Service Answers Critics

By ROBERT P. HEY

(First of a two-part series)

WASHINGTON — Intercity passenger tains in the United States are chugging through a long, dark tunnel of uncertainty nowadays. They may find light at the end of the tunnel — or a blank wall.

For eight months Amtrak, the semipublic corporation that Congress established last year, has been running the trains. It is supposed to run good passenger trains so adeptly that it will test how much support such trains really have in the United States: How many Americans will ride them, and along which railroad routes.

In its eight months, Amtrak has cleaned up its coaches; hired friendlier people to deal with the public; begun simplifying ticketing procedures; promoted vigorously in some parts of the country; made an average of 80 Per cent of its trains run on time, it figures. Amtrak runs an average of 212 passenger trains a day.

But the increasing number of critics in Washington point out Amtrak hasn't even ordered the new coaches and locomotives it needs; doesn't know whether more people ride its trains than rode the railroad-operated ones, and has lost so much more money than expected that it now seeks $170 million from Congress for the next one and a half years.

They charge Amtrak can't control the operation of its own trains because they're run by the railroads under lenient contracts and that Amtrak management has shown little leadership and ingenuity, two indispensable commodities given Amtrak's current circumstances.

Joseph Vranich, Amtrak enthusiast-turned-critic, speaks for many when he grumbles that passengers today are saying. "The service is good on the Santa Fe Railway, but lousy on the Penn Central. That's what they've been saying for years. Nothing's really changed under Amtrak."

Vranich is executive director of the nation's formost passenger train lobby group, the National Associatoc of Railroad passengers.

Amtrak spokesmen say they're working on the specific problems critics point fingers at, and that most are partway to solution. But given the horrendous state of passenger trains when Amtrak came into being, they say, it is taking time to improve the situation — and they're working as fast as they can. The critics hope they will have enough time.

Amtrak's experimental period is to end in a year and a half — July 1, 1973. Then it is to recommend to Congress what routes should be kept running, and which trains should be stopped.

Some here in Washington think that after the deadline nearly all the long-haul, cross-country passenger trains will go the way of the prairie schooner. About all that will be left, they think, is service in heavily populated areas — Boston-Washington, as the best example. Others think this is leaping to unwarranted conclusions.

Critics — including a lot of former supporters — are desperately concerned now that Amtrak won't have either the time or money before that decision day to make the big improvement necessary to coax travelers into riding the rails once again. They say, and Amtrak agrees, that new coaches, locomotives, and promotions are needed. Even if the train system becomes first-class by then, critics warn, changing ingrained habits of travelers — from air and highway to rail — will be a slow process.

As a result, critics now charge, it won't be a fair test. They say there likely will be little increase in riders, and, they conclude it's thus foreordained that Amtrak will wind up discontinuing most of its passenger trains.

The most cynical suspect the Nixon administration has deliberately tried to engineer the derailing of the nationwide Amtrak network by refusing to give it enough money to work with. They point out that the administration wanted Amtrak to get less money last year than leading congressional sponsors proposed and that this year the White House trimmed Amtrak's request for supplemental funds by $90 million.

Amtrak officials say they have both the time and money to make this a fair test. And they flatly deny the charge that the Nixon administration already has written off Amtrak.

Edwin Edel, an Amtrak vice-president, points out that that administration is funding a high-speed experimental ground-transportation project; that an administration-sponsored report on the Northeast corridor late last year recommended spending much more money for rail transportation in that area. These and other developments show, he says, that the Nixon administration is willing to support rail passenger transportation. But, he says, "we have to prove, not only to them but to everybody else, that what we're doing is the right way to go."

Amtrak president Roger Lewis says he believes the $170 million in supplementary funds the Amtrak is seeking in Congress will provide enough money for Amtrak to do its job of recommending by July 1, 1973, the shape of future railroad passenger operations in the United States.

"I believe," he told a congressional committee last fall, "that this money in this two-year-period will put us in a position to make recommendations to the Congress as to those parts of the system that are susceptible to rapid development.

"Now, it may be the whole system, or it may be that we will say that we just cannot do anything with certain parts. I do not know. I am not prejudging that."

Edel points out that railroad passenger service has been worsening since the end of World War II. During that time under the operation of most of the nation's railroads, coaches and locomotives aged but received less maintenance; so did trackbeds. Little new equipment was purchased, except for a specific few passenger lines. Passenger service was shortchanged all down the line.

Then last May 1 Amtrak took over operation of these passenger lines, trimming service nearly in half as one early step toward solvency, and improved operation.

"The general public thought that as of May 1," Edel says, "all the problems that had been developing for 25 years were going to be solved.

'But everyone who knows anything about the problem realizes this was going to be a long, trying job . . .

"The name of the game: Can we reverse the decline of ridership that has been going downhill for almost two decades?

"What do we have to do to do it?

"And what king of passenger train does the public want?"

Nest: More Money from Congress — but not as much as highways get.

Children's Theater Organized

The Children's Theater, an offshoot of the Mill Valley Center for the Performing Arts, has been organized in Mill Valley and will stage its first production, "Gretchen and the Goblin," in April.

Casting for 11 parts in the play will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday at the center, 267 Buena Vista Avenue, Mill Valley, according to Helana McDill of Mill Valley, one of the organizers.

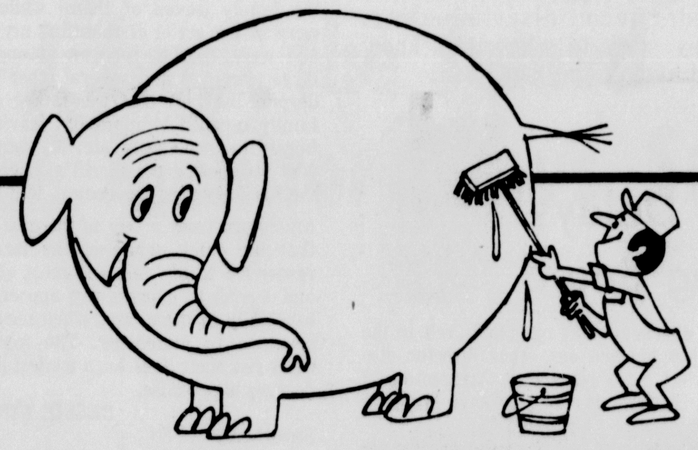

Actors who can sing and dance are needed for the production, said Mrs. McDill. It will be staged five Saturdays starting in early April at 1 and 3 p.m., she said, with autograph parties with the characters in costume to follow each production.

The play will be produced by Sali Lieberman and directed by Donald Stone. Future performances of the children's theater will include "Many Moons," "The House at Pooh Corner" and eventually original plays written especially for the theater group, according to Mrs. McGill.

Big Election Field: Unusual Opportunity

Marin has its biggest field of city council candidates in history for the April 11 municipal elections.

Voters in every city will have a choice.

Novato, with 11 candidates for three city council positions, has the largest field since its incorporation election in January, 1960, when 27 filed for the first five-member council.

There are 11 candidates for three positions also in Sausalito, the biggest field there in at least a decade — exceeding by one that of 1964, when 10 aspired for three council positions.

THERE ARE AT LEAST two candidates for every city council opening in all except one of the 10 cities of Marin holding elections. Tiburon has three candidates with two spots to be filled.

The total of 68 candidates for 26 council openings has never been matched in this country before. Two years ago, there were 51 for 24; in 1968, 56 for 26; in 1966, 57 for 24; in 1964, 51 for 24 (Tiburon was not yet incorporated), and 10 years ago, 51 for 21.

ALL OF THIS GIVES the voters a great opportunity to select leaders of city government whose ideas they approve and whose philosophies they trust.

How well the voters utilize this opportunity will depend both on them and on the candidates. And it will depend also to some extent on the activities of civic groups in each city.

IT WILL DEPEND on the candidates because it is up to them to state clearly their ideas on municipal issues and municipal policies. It is up to them to give the voters something more than faces and slogans among which to choose.

It will depend on the voters because it is up to them to learn what the candidates propose and for what the candidates stand — and to insist on answers to specific questions concerning their cities' future.

It will depend on civic groups because they have the opportunity to provide the aspiring politicians with the forums in which they can expound their ideas to the public and respond to the public's questions — candidates' nights, public gatherings for individual candidates or groups of candidates, and if possible, questionnaries on specific issues for the aspirants to answer.

If all do their part — the candidates themselves, the civic groups, and the voting public — the April 11 elections should result in every one of the 10 cities getting a city council more aware of and responsive to the desires of its people.

Marin's Raccoons Spoiled?

The lady at our house is convinced the raccoons in our neighborhood are spoiled rotten. The evidence for this startling conclusion lies in the fact that they do not often accept our table leftovers. These creatures of the wild have no use for cooked carrots, plum pudding, ham or old cake. "Our raccoons" will eat only certain kinds of dog food, marshmallows and bread.

Perhaps this is being "spoiled," But we prefer the kinder term, discriminating. They stick to what they know and avoid being poisoned.

Arrigoni's Absence Delays Showdown On Smog Board

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

The environmental credentials of County Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. will be on the line next month when he votes on whether to fire the legal officer of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District.

Arrigoni, as one of the 18 directors of the district, chaired the closed-door meeting of its personnel committee that recommended firing district counsel Matthew S. Walker. Still new to district politics, Arrigoni bought the claims by some senior directors that Walker deserved firing after 17 years because he and the top administrator, D. J. Callaghan, were incompatible.

Arrigoni soon showed signs he regretted his participation in the rdcommendation. He apparently was shocked by the bitterness the committee triggered — especially when Walker promptly denounced Callaghan and unnamed directors for shielding industrial polluters from prosecution.

THE ISSUE THUS became not Walker's firing, but a test of Callaghan's support on the board of directors.

The first test came at last week's board meeting, which was attended by all but one of the directors — Arrigoni. His absence was particularly felt in the afternoon when one other director also took off. As a swing vote, Arrigoni could have broken tie votes to save Walker's skin.

Instead, a showdown vote was set for 10 a.m. on March 15 in the district office at 939 Ellis Street, San Francisco.

Belated release of the secret charges against Walker by Arrigoni's committee hardly made the Marin supervisor look any better. The charges were absurdly thin, alleging only that Walker had failed to "work harmoniously" with Callaghan, to "communicate openly and freely" with Callaghan, and had "withheld the full extent of his cooperation" from Callaghan.

This is an election year, and Arrigoni's constituents have a stake in his performance as a director of the air pollution control district.

Arrigoni's vote could determine the future direction of the district — whether it continues its business-as-usual attitude, or tackles its responsibilities with a determination that so far has been impossible to detect.

THE MARIN COUNTY Taxpayers Association has been having a field day with a series of five sensational newspaper advertisements attacking the Golden Gate Bridge District.

Some of the purported charges have bordered on truth, but even these are hopelessly encumbered with distortions of fact.

Donald M. Van Dyke of Novato, director of the association, assured us when the ads began that there was no connection between them and Harbor Carriers, the private ferry operator fighting the bridge district's entry into the ferry business.

Last week, however, Van Dyke changed his mind when we told him we had heard the ads were written by Harbor Carriers' public relations firm, the Art Blum Public Relations and Advertising Agency.

This time, Van Dyke conceded that he "got some editorial help out of Art's office," adding he had chosen the firm precisely because it also worked for Harbor Carriers.

"It's easier to lean on someone who has got an interest," he said.

Van Dyke did not seem disturbed at our suggestion that the connection with Harbor Carriers thus could be construed to mean his association merely was fronting for Harbor Carriers.

Beelzebub Was At The Dinner

Re: article, Jan. 31, Carol Feraci's anti-war talk at the White House dinner.

Her second thought — "it would be a great opportunity to make the American people a little more aware of what is going on in Vietnam" — 'twas a sword to my super-Stars and Striped God-heart.

Her assumption that we Americans are not aware of the world conditions reveals a bit of her inner self.

No doubt, Jesus Christ was evident at the White House. Obviously, so was Beelzebub.

As St. Peter wrote in his Chapter Two, verse 16, "Live as free men; not however as though your freedom were there to provide a screen for wrong-doing, but as slaves in God's service."

Sheriff's Response Foils Burglary

I wish to extend to the sheriff's department at Marin City my sincere thanks for the efforts they made in my behalf when my home was burglarized during my absence on Dec. 29. It seems fantastic that they arrived in time to apprehend the family (seven of them) while they were in the act of dismantling my home and were able to recover at once my large television and several other items, despite the fact that the father of the family escaped temporarily, leaving his family to face the music. My neighbor, who had alerted the sheriff's office while the burglary was proceeding, told me on my return from a trip to the east coast, that the quick action of the men who responded to his call was most efficient and I wish to express my appreciation, especially in these days when burglaries seem to be increasing. The men who daily risk their lives for a modest income deserve high praise.

Statistics' Meaning Easily Distorted

Ernest B. Furgurson's column Jan. 28 presented some very strange statistics. He referred to an opinion poll which indicated that 31 per cent of the American people consider population growth a more serious national problem than pollution, 39 per cent consider population growth more serious than racial discrimination, and so on. This is a perfect example of the old saw about lying with statistics. Obviously what the poll really said was that 69 per cent of the people thought population less serious than pollution, 61 per cent thought it less serious than racial discrimination, and so on for the other examples Mr. Furgurson gave.

The real point is that statistics do not explain themselves: statistics are just numbers to which we attach meanings. The column's assertion that "a cold computer study . . . produced by MIT scientists finds that current population and industrial trends will bring the human race into fatal confrontation with itself" is at the very least an overstatement. In fact the opposite conclusion has been reached by Dr. Conrad Taeuber, chief supervisor of the Bureau of the Census, who is undoubtedly working with the same information.

I only wish that Mr. Furgurson and all the other people who talk about a population explosion would have the intelligence or honesty to admit they are talking about opinions, not about any proven fact.

'Inside Story' Offered On Marin City Talks

As a person working temporarily with the community representatives of Marin City who went back to New York last week in conjunction with the ridgelands negotiations... I am amazed both by what I read in the papers — and don't — of what happened back there.

News of an impasse in the negotiations, with the Marin County Redevelopment Agency representatives refusing to join the negotiations as long as the community representatives were there... never reached print in any news media...

Further, for an issue that had commanded headlines and stirred a local storm of controvery... it seemed strange that the names and roles of those who were parties to the New York negotiations, other than that of Supervisor Michael Wornum... were by-passed.

That was the story! Along with what came out of the thing in the way of concessions to the Marin City community from Calfornia Development Co. and the fact that the land swap itself was held up from becoming "fait accompli" back there.

What really was going on was a play by the redevelopment group to save itself. This by getting money out of the ridgelands land swap with Cal Development to in turn go ahead with its own R-8 program and thus get off the fiscal spike it was on...

Cal Development was not promoting the land swap. Redevelopment was.

The members of the board of supervisors, but beholders of the impasse... was looking for an answer — or a savior.

That answer, and maybe the saving, was provided by the initiative of the community representatives of Marin City itself: Sam Banks, long known as a community spokesman and local civil rights leader, together with Nesbit Crutchfield, informally representative of the younger, articulate Mjrin City constituency...

These two men, invited in as "observers" but in fact acting as spokesmen for one deadlocked side in the controversy, talked out the issues for two days with all of the negotiators except Redevelopment's representatives, gained almost everything their community had wanted in the way of concessions except seeing its own development corporation, MUDA, become the heir apparent to Cal Development, and broke the deadlock for officialdom. . .20112

Nixon's Peace Proposals May Appeal To Moscow And Peking

FURTHER PEACE MANEUVER ON VIETNAM. At the top of the agenda which Nixon will take to both Peking and Moscow will be new proposals for ending the war.

They were implicit in Kissinger's secret negotiations but not spelled out.

One of Hanoi's central demands for a peace agreement is that the United States stop all aid to South Vietman — miliatry and economic. Here is what the President will propose:

The United States will end all military aid to South Vietnam if China and Russia will end all military aid to North Vietnam.

After a peace settlement, U.S. economic aid will be available to all of Indochina, including $2.5 billion dollars for rebuilding North Vietnam.

Nixon hopes Peking and Moscow will join in.

WILL THESE PROPOSALS APPEAL TO CHINA AND RUSSIA? They might — for different reasons.

Neither the Russians nor the Chinese want to see North Vietnam dominating all of Indochina. This would greatly reduce their influence in the region.

Peking wants to keep the Russians out entirely. Moscow does not want North Vietnam to become a Chinese satellite.

Nixon's plan would help avoid both.

SHOULDN'T THE AFFLUENT CRIMINAL PAY? The British have asked that question and Parliament says yes.

A new criminal justice bill becomes law in Britain this year. Under it, courts will be empowered to make an offender bankrupt in cases where the total loss suffered as a result of his crime tops $40,000.

The theory is that the embezzler or the fraud who figured on spending a few years in jail and then enjoying the fruits of his crime ought to pay up.

In Britain, they are tryng to make him.

ALL IS NOT ROSY FOR GEORGE WALLACE. By running in the primaries, Governor Wallace aims to get a sizable handful of delegates for his candidacy at the Democratic convention. But there's a catch.

At the convention, the Wallace delegates must take an oath that they will not oppose nor campaign against the party nominee.

Wallace is taking no such oath but he is allowing his delegate slates to do so. This means that, if they keep their word, they can't help Wallace as an independent candidate for the presidency.

THE DEMOCRATS — OUTSPENT BUT NOT OUTMANNED. Democratic National Chairman Lawrence O'Brien is enviously eyeing the mounting Republican kitty for the 1972 campaign. The GOP may have more than $50 million to play with, the Democrats less than half that.

But the Republicans will be vastly outmanned. They'll outspend the Democrats but the Democrats will have more than double the manpower of the Republicans — labor union volunteers at no cost — to ring doorbells and get the voters to the polls.

THE NAVY'S MISSION RISING. For many years the low man on the defense budget totem pole, the Navy is now heading into better seas — more dollars and a bigger role.

With the Army dwindling in size and the Air Force curtailed to make room for expensive missiles, it is evident that the Navy is going to become the cutting edge of the administration's strategy for keeping the peace — and to balance Russia's sudden naval expansion.

There will be cuts imposed by Congress on the Nixon defense budget, but Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., has assured the White House that most of the Navy's share, including more missile submarines and a new-type undersea long-range missile system, will be approved.

Campaigning Candidate Gets A Look At The Drug Scene

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — Political campaigning is usually a cynical exercise. Even the politicans you know to becompassionate men follow schedules arranged by advance men to milk maximum publicity from visits to slums, hospitals and other habitations of the unfortunate. And if there is any class outwardly even more unfeeling, it is the photographers and TV crews, who habitually step up their oblivious patter during the invocation and the "Star-Spangled Banner."

Thus, the other day, San. Edmund Muskie and his motorcade descended with reporters and cameramen on a refurbished 1924 imitation Spanish-style house on a busy boulevard here.

Art Barker, the man who greeted the senator, has crow's-feet, hair combed forward over a pate going bald at 47, and the exaggerated smile of a stand-up comedian. That is what he used to be. That and an alcoholic. Now he is running the Seed, a drug reform program for young people.

UP TO THERE, it all looks like any other political stop to demonstrate any candidate's deep concern for any photogenic group with problems. Then the entourage moved around behind the house, to an open-air shed. Beneath it sat perhaps 150 children. For a minute there was silence. I asked a reporter beside me, "Do they mean to tell us these are the dope addicts?"

They were. Hardly a handful of them looked old enough for high school. More than half were girls. They were scrubbed and had sun-bleached hair. Many of them were smoking. A wave of coughing ran through them. Their faces were open, vulnerable.

Barker and the senator talked about how the children got there. Barker asked a few individuals to stand up and describe their own route. The first was a girl who had begun smoking pot at 11, run the gamut through heroin, come to the seed and apparently broken her habit. She was 15 years old. Several others told their stories. They were remarkably similar.

LEGALIZATION OF MARIJUANA, that favorite subject of campus debate, was brought up. Barker asked those who favored legalizatqon to raise their hands. Not one was raised. Then he asked for those against it. Every one raised his hand. He said, and they conformed, that all but a very few had started by taking a purportedly harmless puff of marijuana. In every case, that had been followed by harder drugs, usually including heroin.

Muskie, who has five children of his own, listened quietly. Then he and Barker and about a dozen of them talked together off to one side. Like any parent, he wanted to know what caused them to try drugs in the first place. He kept coming back to that. What was it — broken homes? Trouble with their parents?

Consistently, they said those commonly assumed reasons had nothing to do with it. Without exception, they said they did because all the other kids were doing it. Peer pressure. They would have been considered square in their bunch if they had refused. And everybody had some. It was everywhere in their schools.

Muskie asked where they got the stuff. From each other, they told him. The widespread idea of a sinister adult gangster visiting the playground during recess is another outdated assumption.

IT IS THEIR OWN thing, and therein lies its attraction. They try it because their playmates push them into it, and they move on to more and more dangerous drugs for the same reason. And when they begin at junior high school, even elementary grade level, they proceed through different stages of usage far faster than those who first experiment at a later age.

They explained that because it is their own thing, they always defy adults who try to talk them out of it on the ground grown-ups don't know anything about it. That is where the Seed comes in. It uses the same peer pressure, intensely magnified, to turn them around. Barker claimed an 89 per cent cure rate, and hopes that his program will live up to its name by spreading to other cities.

Each time a child stands up to tell his experiences in one of the group's therapeutic "rap sessions," everyone present tells him in unison when he sits down, "I love you, Billy," or whoever.

And at the end of most of those sessions, they all sing "Jingle Bells" together — for the very good reason that when you have been gn drugs and get off, every day is Christmas.

Which is, of course, corny, something no cynical politician or reporter or cameraman could hear without scoffing. However, for those few minutes under that shed on South Andrews Avenue, there was not a cynic in the lot.

18-Year-Olds Stand To Lose Something With Adulthood

Eighteen-to-21-year-olds, who in March will get most of the privileges of adulthood, may find there is at least one ringer in the legislative package that will allow them to do all the adult things except drink.

Juvenile court, which in the past has been a refuge to many in this age group, will no longer be open to them under new laws.

Young people 18 to 21 with clean (or at least not terribly tarnished) records who were living with their parents or going to school in the past have been eligible for referral to juvenile court, where all proceedings are closed.

In addition to not having their cases publicized, the youngsters dealt with as juveniles do not wind up with adult criminal records.

AFTER THE FIRST week in March, "there will be a lot of kids with felony convictions for one marijuana cigarette," in the words of one Marin attorney.

Even if his dire prediction doesn't turn out to be true, there undoubtedly will be many youngsters who will find out that adult court is a different matter from juvenile — where a certain paternal attitude still exists.

The 18-to-21-year-olds still will be eligible for the California Youth Authority (as an alternative to state prison), but they will have to be sent from adult court.

While on the subject of the new legislation, it seems ridiculous to grant young people all the privileges of adulthood except alcohol.

If they are going to vote, serve on juries, get tired in adult court and sign contracts, they might as well be able to belt a few beers to ease the pain.

THE LANGUAGE of at least some young people, especially those involved in the drug culture, is understandably a mystery to outsiders.

A judge in superior court who was presiding over the trial of a young man accused of a dope violation smilingly agreed to do some interpreting for a jury.

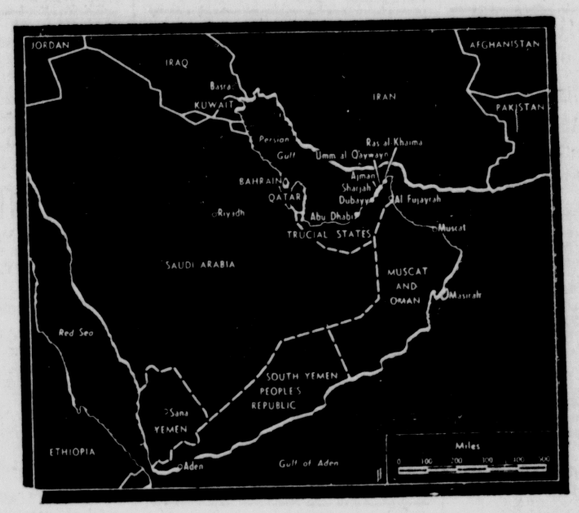

"O.D. means overdose," he answered to one juror's question. He then explained to another that "O.R." stands for "own recognizance," a term meaning release without bail. (This one is even a verb—as in "I've been Or-ed.")

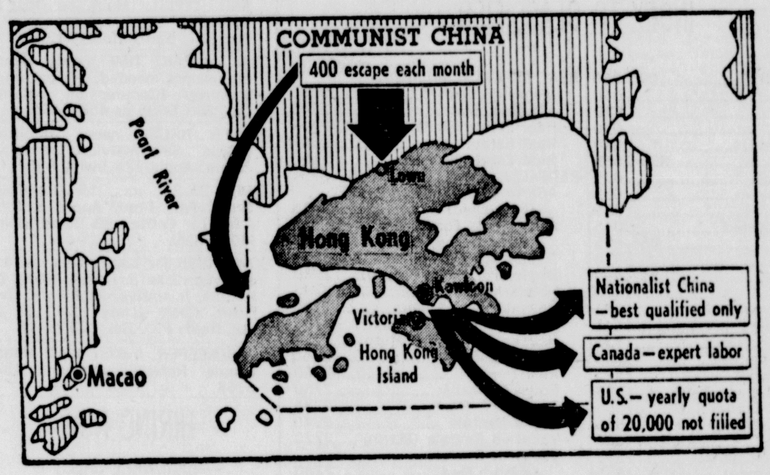

But when a third juror wanted to know what "split" means, the judge really grinned, as he compared the term to the old-fashioned expression, "French leave."

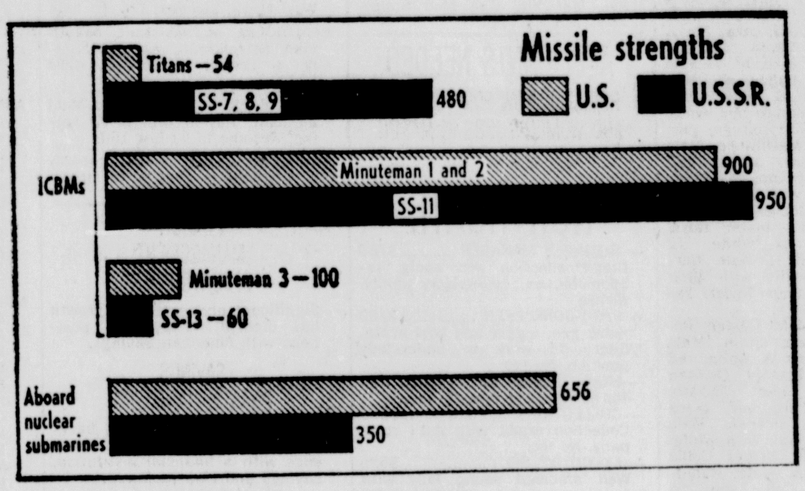

"I even say 'split' myself," the judge, who is well on the far side of 30, said later.

Apparently the jurors were not prejudiced against the young man, however, even if they didn't understand his language. They split on whether he was guilty and he may not have to face another trial.

WINDOW ON THE WORLD

Guatemala Doesn't Really Cherish Mosquito Coast

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

A hotel keeper in Flores, a city on the Guatemalan side of the border with British Honduras, summed up quickly local opinion on Guatemala's claim to the British colony which is the last remnant of British empire in the Caribbean.

"We keep saying that Belize (capital of British Honduras) is ours," he said. "But we all know that isn't so. Maybe we'd like the territory, but we don't want the people living in it."

The feeling is mutual, scarcely reflective of the official view which has led to another diplomatic confrontation between Guatemala and Britain as represented by some 3,000 British troops and Britain's biggest warship, the aircraft carrier Ark Royal.

WHAT THE BRITISH call longscheduled amphibious maneuvers, the Guatemalans call gunboat diplomacy, and have received the support of neighboring El Salvador.

Off and on for some hundreds of years Guatemala has claimed the colony which is sandwiched between Guatemala and Mexico on the Carribean coast and is about the size of New Hampshire. Various attempts to settle the matter through treaties have been unsuccessful.

Aside from the matter of geography there is little resemblance between the two.

Guatemalans are mostly a mixture of Indian and Spanish, are Catholic, speak Spanish and in general may be said to take a somber view of life.

Belizeans are mostly black, speak English and go to Protestant churches. British Honduras hums with soul music and enjoys a gay Caribbean life style.

Its 120,000 population rejected a U.S.-sponsored treaty in the late 1960s which would have made them independent but obligated to consult with Guatemala on matters of defense and foreign affairs.

THE COLD war which sometimes lays a special chill over Guatemalan-British Honduran relations, usually contains more sound than fury.

The border is unguarded and a Guatemalan consulate in Belize City issues visas as if no conflict existed.

In the present situation the British say their show of strength is only coincidental to the large numbers of Guatemalan troops in the northern Guatemalan department of Peten, known to be a stronghold of Guatemalan guerrillas.

For their part, the Guatemalans deny any intention of invading British Honduras and say the presence of their troops along the border is solely in connection with the antiguerrilla campaign.

EL SALVADOR has joined the Guatemalans in calling the arrival of British troops a provocation and a threat to Central American security. Reassurances by Washington that the British are indeed conducting routine exercises has had no noticeable soothing effect.

Few Guatemalans actually believe that British Honduras ever will be part of their country. The colony would seem to have little to recommend it. The jungle is mosquito infested and prone to hurricanes. It produces precious woods and chewing gum but roads are primitive or non-existent, making it difficult to exploit.

Murder Trial Set Feb. 28

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Trial for a San Francisco man accused of murdering the mother and father of a San Rafael woman during a holdup in San Francisco has been set for Feb. 28 in superior court here.

Harry B. Conweld is accused of murdering George and Elinor Cushman, 89 and 75. They are the parents of Jean Wiedenmeyer of San Rafael. Cushman died during the robbery on Aug. 6 of knife wounds, and Mrs. Cushman died in November.

Conwell has already pleaded guilty to the murder of another man, Ernest Paramino, 76, during another holdup, also in San Francisco. He has already been sentenced to life in prison for that murder.

Ancient Paper Is Discovered

CAIRO (UPI)—Archeologists digging near Cairo have discovered a papyrus document about 4,000 years old written in Aramaic, the language of Christ, an Egyptian antiquarian said today.

Kamal Mallakh, an authority in ancient languages, said it was "a major discovery."

"This is a very rare discovery he said." The last Aramaic Papyrus was found 20 years ago on an island in the river nile at Aswan."

Papyrus is a reed in abundance along the banks of the Nile. During Biblical times the Egyptians used it to make parchment for writing and to construct sea-going vessels.

"The document appears to tell of a plan dating from 2,000 years before the birth of Christ for a Syrian invasion of Egypt and of how the Egyptians countered the plan," Mallakh said.

House Move Would Force Busing Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At least 139 House members back a move to force the House to take a vote on a proposed constitutional amendment to outlaw busing to achieve racial balance in public schools.

This is far short of the 218 signatures required to force a piece of legislation out of committee and bring it to the floor for a vote; but the representatives who have signed the petition thus far are from 33 states, indicating a wide base of support.

A list of the signatures, obtained by UPI, showed backers among lawmakers from all Southern and Border states, except for Arkansas, and from Massachusetts, Michigan, California and New York.

Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., has had the proposed amendment bottled up in his Judiciary Committee, although he had promised to hold hearings on it starting March 1. Southerners began collecting signatures on the discharge petition in August and have continued the effort despite Celler's plans to hold the hearings.

House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan is among those backing the move.

The amendment would have to pass both the House and Senate by at least a 529-thirds vote and then be ratified by three-fourths of the states before it could become part of the Constitution.

The proposed amendment:

"No public school student shall, because of his race, creed or color, be assigned to or required to attend a particular school."

The proposal was introduced by Rep. Norman Lent, R-N.Y., in a move designed in part to avoid a southern label being put on the effort. Scores of amendment proposals have been introduced in the House, and several have turned up in the Senate.

All are aimed at overturning recent federal court decisions calling for cross-town pupil transfers to achieve racial balances in schools.

TV Review

What It's Really Like To Be Black

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Redbook magazine has an article in its February issue entitled: "TV: Is This What it's Really Like to be Black?" And according to the black women surveyed by writer Jean Carey Bond for the article, television comes off rather poorly in its portrayal of "America's largest minority."

Among the women whose views were sought by Mrs. Bond were 13 asked by Redbook to take part in a symposium concerning questions that included how blacks are portrayed by the communications industry. In addition to overall criticism, writes Mrs. Bond, "Television, because it is the most influential and aggressive medium, was judged to be the major culprit." She adds:

"On the whole, the women agreed, television's blacks either are depicted as eagerly seeking the good white life or are integrated into shows in token fashion as rather distinctive pieces of scenery." Getting down to specific shows, Mrs. Bond writes:

"Many women pointed out that the black TV presence is constantly being neutralized by the ridiculous contexts in which it is placed. Essentially we are asked to disregard Greg Morris' racial identity on 'Mission: Impossible' and encouraged to view him as simply another pretty face among the superefficient CIA-type 'Mission' agents."

Clarence Williams, "who plays the black member of 'Mod Squad,' a pseudo-hippie trio operating as an undercover police unit, is generally regarded as projecting a negative black image," Mrs. Bond writes.

As another example, Mrs. Bond says: "Diahann Carroll's highly touted but now defunct network show 'Julia,' a comedy-drama about the widowed mother of a small boy, was roundly condemned as an insultingly unreal slice of black life."

According to Mrs. Bond, the symposium members singled out two shows "as exceptions to the general TV rule." One was ABC-TV's "Room 222," and the article says it "won general approval as a comparatively realistic portrayal of black students and teachers in an urban, integrated high school." The other show was noncommercial video's acclaimed children's series "Sesame Street," and Mrs. Bond writes:

"The program's successful fusing of black patterns of speech, family life, food preferences and history into its format was attributed by panel members to the presence on the 'Sesame Street' production staff of blacks in creative and management positions."

HELP PREVENT AMERICA'S NO.1 MENTAL DISEASE: IGNORANCE.

This country's never had a problem so big that could be solved so simply. All it takes is education.

Which means we need more money for better colleges. For stronger faculties. For many more students.

We support 40 private, four-year colleges now educating over 45,000 students.

Most of the youngsters we help could never get to college on their own. Because most of them come from families earning less than $5,000 a year.

Janet Lynn Earns Olympic Medal For America

SAPPORO, Japan (UPI) — Little Janet Lynn of Rockford, Ill., brought the United States its second medal of the XVI Winter Olympic Games Monday when she placed third and took the bronze medal in women's figure skating.

Miss Lynn, 19, put on a spectacular free skating performance—even earning a perfect 6.0 rating from one judge—but it wasn't enough to catch frontrunner Beatrix "Trixi" Schuba of Austria, who built an insurmountable lead in the compulsory figures.

Miss Schuba, a tall, 20-year-old native of Vienna, turned in a routine performance, playing it safe in the free skating, to win the gold medal. Canada's Karen Magnusson won the silver medal.

Julie Lynn Holmes of North Hollywood, Calif., second after the compulsory figures—six designs skated under the close scrutiny of a judges panel—had a poor free skating performance and fell to fourth place in the final standings.

The medal-winning performance by Miss Holmes came after the young U.S. hockey team, inspired by the brilliant goaltending of Mike Curran, pulled off the upset of the hockey tournament by stunning heavily favored Czechoslovakia 5-1.

Curran, a veteran of international competition who joined the U.S. club shortly before it departed for Sapporo, was sensational after allowing the lone Czechoslovakian goal at 4:32 of the first period. He turned back 39 shots in the first two periods alone and 51 in all, including a stellar effort on a breakway by Jiri Holik.

Keith Christiansen of Duluth, Minn., tied the game in the first period when he knocked the puck in after a goalmouth scramble and Kevin Ahearn of Milton, Mass., produced the goahead goal of 9:41 of the second period as he converted a pass from Craig Sarner on a two-on-one break.

Sarner, of St. Paul, Minn., boosted the lead to 3-1 three minutes later, deflecting a shot by Jim McElmury and Charlie Sanders gave the U.S. a 4-1 lead with a long slap shot. Ron Naslund of Burnsville, Minn., added the fifth goal in the final period.

The U.S. victory, combined with Sweden's 3-3 tie with Russia, a co-favorite along with Czechoslovakia, turned the hockey tournament into a wide open race.

The outstanding individual performance of the day came from Ard Schenk, the Dutch speed skating star, who completed his gold medal triple by winning the gruelling 10,000-meter event after earlier taking the 1,500 and 5,000 meter crowns.

Bernhard Russi of Switzerland, the favorite, came through to win the men's downhill ski race.

Schenk, a 27-year-old physiotherapist, turned in an Olympic record time of 15:01.35 to beat countryman Cee Verkerk, who was more than three seconds behind. Sten Swensen of Norway took third. Schenk, however, was well off his world record of 14:55.90 set at Inzell, Austria, last March.

Schenk thus becomes only the third man in Olympic history to win three gold medals in speed skating competition. The last was Hjalmar Anderson of Norway in 1952.

Russi, the world champion, finished the downhill in one minute, 51.43 seconds to beat teammate Roland Collombin.

"The victory didn't come as a surprise to me," said Russi. "I had been working for this for the last two years. I was in very good condition and I looked at my Swiss teammates as my chief rivals."

Collombin finished in 1:52.07 to nose out Austria's Heini Messner (1:52.40) for the silver medal.

Sweden roared back with three goals in the final period to pull off its tie with Russia. Bjorn Palmqvist, Inge Hammarstrom and Hakan Wickburg collected the Swedish goals while Valerii Charlamov had two goals and an assist for Russia.

Sven-Aake Lundbeck, a 24-year-old in only his first year of international competition, won the 15-kilometer cross country ski with a time of 45 minutes, 28.24 seconds, beating Russia's Fedor Simaschov and Norway's Ivar Skobov.

Anna Muller led an East German sweep of the women's luge competition when she won the gold medal in an aggregate time of two minutes, 59.18 seconds. Miss Muller had a final run of :44.32 to beat Ute Ruhrold and Margit Schumann.

PREP CAGE

Marin 'Cats, San Rafael Go

Marin Catholic High School, which has made the most remarkable reversal of form since Clark Kent last entered a phone booth, confronts San Rafael tonight at 7 o'clock in a Marin County Athletic League basketball game.

Elsewhere in the league, Drake plays Tamalpais at College of Marin, 4 p.m.; Novato travels to Redwood, also 4 p.m.; and San Marin journeys to Terra Linda, 6 p.m. The San Marin-Terra Linda game will be followed immediately by a wrestling match between the MCAL's two undefeated powers, San Rafael and Terra Linda.

'SMALLER'

"We have gone to a smaller, quicker lineup," said Marin Catholic coach Dave Gonsalves. The resulting fast-break attack ended a six-game losing streak against Justin of Napa last week, and then brought the Wildcats' a thumping 86-61 victory over Novato last Friday.

One key to the newfound success is the play of guard Bill Reilly, who worked his way into the starting lineup and sparked the Novato victory with 18 points and nine assists. Another new starter is guard Paul Bartolini.

FAMILIAR FACE

Tim Stone, a familiar face, has been moved to a new position at center, where he is now being platooned with former starter Steve Vanni. Jim Sullivan, an ex-guard, occupies a forward spot now.

Additionally, the 'Cats have developed a super-sub, Jack Stahl, who came off the bench for 28 points in his last two games.

All the shuffling was prompted by a flurry of injuries which reached its peak when starting guard Ben Partee was lost for the season with a broken leg and starting forward Dan Mahoney was shelved with a severe ankle sprain. Mahoney may return next week.

HUMMED

The fast break hummed so efficiently against Novato that the Wildcats shot 65 per cent from the field. Duplicating the feat against San Rafael will be difficult, however. All fast breaks must start with a defensive rebound, but San Rafael has enough board strength to make this a tough task.

The Drake-Tamalpais game will match the league's No. 1 and No. 2 defensive teams. The last time they met, the score reflected this fact, as Tam won, 36-29.

LEAGUE LEADER

Tam is leading the league with an 8-0 record, followed by San Rafael and Redwood at 5-2. Naturally, every game is a "must" game for the two challengers from here on.

Redwood defeated Novato in their earlier meeting, 57-39, and now has won four straight in the league following losses to Tam and San Rafael. The Giants' over-all record is 19-2. Novato got a sparkling 20-point performance from Tom Conklin last Friday against Marin Catholic, but to no avail.

Terra Linda almost pulled out its game with Tam last Friday, drawing within four points with a dramatic fourth-quarter rally before falling back, 56-48. The game marked the return to prominence of the outside-inside combination of Mark Lowey and John Buckley, which netted 33 points.

Marin Tars Decision Solano '5'

The College of Marin Tars, getting good play from Joe Casteel "at both ends of the floor," jumped on top of Solano College early and stayed there for a 58-46 Camino Norte Conference basketball victory Saturday night in Vallejo.

The triumph gave the Tars a 7-1 CNC record, one game behind Contra Costa College of San Pablo, which edged De Anza of Cupertino, 57-51.

Casteel scored 19 points in a game that was slow offensively. "He also got about nine rebounds and played well defensively," said coach John Panagakis.

The Tars dominated the backboards, grabbing 46 rebounds to Solano's 30. The key was good rebounding by the forwards, Casteel and Ed Herrnberger, to go with the normally strong board work of center Roosevelt Green. "Herrnberger had another nine rebounds and Green about eight," said Panagakis.

No Tar besides Casteel hit in double figures, but Herrnberger, Green and Joe DeMaestri scored nine points each and Joe Smith contributed another eight.

Marin jumped out to a 31-17 halftime lead and never was in serious trouble thereafter. The closest Solano got in the second half was 10 points.

The Tars' next game is Wednesday night at 8 p.m. in Kentfield against Canada College of Redwood City. Contra Costa travels to the gym of troublesome West Valley in Campbell. Saturday night, Marin visits Contra Costa's lair for a showdown.

College of Marin	31	27	— 58
Solano	17	29	— 46

Marin — Casteel 8-3-19, Herrnberger 3-3-9, Green 2-5-9, Smith 3-2-8, DeMaestri 3-3-9, Flynn 2-0-4. Totals: 21-16-58.

Solano — Halfhill 4-0-8, Wystepk 3-3-9, Grapes 2-1-5, Parker 2-3-8, Hicks 6-3-15, McKee 0-2-2. Totals: 17-12-46.

STOP; GIVE ME THE BALL BACK

Boston Celtics' center Dave Cowens jumped to block the view of Seattle Supersonics' Don Smith (35) who was trying to throw the basketball in play during the second quarter yesterday at the Boston Garden. Smith got the ball into play, but Boston won, 128-123. See story, page 32.

MAT TITLE ON LINE

Terra Linda, San Rafael Vie

In one of those happy coincidences of scheduling which seem to be happening so often in the Marin County Athletic League this year, two undefeated teams — San Rafael and Terra Linda — will meet tomorrow for the wrestling championship.

The match will begin at 7:30 p.m. at Terra Linda as part of a unique "quadrupleheader." It will be preceded by junior varsity (4:30 p.m.) and varsity (6 p.m.) basketball games between Terra Linda and San Marin. A junior varsity wrestling match will run concurrently.

Seldom has there been as much pessimism in the camp of an undefeated team as there is in San Rafael's. The woes stem from a back injury last week to standout 194-pounder Dirk Correnti, who is out for the year.

Even with Correnti, San Rafael would have been an underdog. Now the Bulldogs' chances are considerably lessened. Terra Linda has great over-all team strength, especially in the lower weight classes.

Terra Linda has one undefeated wrestler, Brian Jordan (178). San Rafael also has one, 148-pounder Dave Hughes, whom Lack calls "the best wrestler we've ever had at San Rafael.

There will be no head-on collisions of stars, although the 123-pound match between Brian Duff of San Rafael and Augie Venezie of Terra Linda will be a good one. Other Terra Linda standouts are Mark Egide (106), Mike Weinstein (115), Reggie Grant (130), Bob Shaw (136) and Keith Rautio (143). Then San Rafael will bring its power to bear with Hughes, Wolf Kristensen (157), and Al Garbarino (168), but by that time Terra Linda probably will have a lopsided lead.

Other season-ending dual matches tomorrow find Tamalpais at Novato, 4 p.m., and Redwood at San Marin, 6:30 p.m. Drake draws the bye.

Ex-Texas A&M Coach Named Dallas Aide

DALLAS (UPI)—The Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys apparently like Texas A&M coaching discards.

They hired their second one over the week end with the announcement that Gene Stallings would join the Cowboys staff to coach the defensive backs.

On the Cowboys staff he will be joining another former fired Aggie head man, Jim Myers, who was ousted at College Station in 1961 after a four-year span. Myers is offensive line coach and running game coordinator for the Cowboys.

The 36-year-old Stallings will actually join the staff Feb. 14.

"It is a move we had to make," said Coach Tom Landry. "We felt we had to split up some of the duties, particularly in Bobby Franklin's area."

Franklin has been coaching the secondary, the specialty teams and handling the team's film work. He will still handle the latter two.

"We've always recognized Gene's ability as a coach and his major background is defense and in the defensive secondary," Landry said.

Stallings, a Texas A&M graduate who followed his coach, Bear Bryant, to Alabama before returning to his alma mater as head coach and athletic director in 1964, said he was pleased.

"I have been a fan of both Coach Landry and the Cowboys, and I'm very pleased to join such a fine organization."

Grier Jones Tops Hawaii Tourney

HONOLULU (UPI)—Young Grier Jones, the 1968 NCAA golf titlist, sat with a bottle of soda pop in his hands after winning the $200,000 Hawaiian Open Sunday in a sudden death playoff over chunky Bob Murphy.

Jones, 26, from Wichita, Kan., and a graduate of Oklahoma State, was reflecting on his 3 1-2 years on the pro tour.

"I can say that I really worked hard for 3 1-2 years," he told newsmen after pocketing the $40,000 winner's check.

JONES

Jones dropped a two-foot putt for a par on the first playoff hole after ending the 72-hole tournament with a 14-under-par 274 with Murphy. Murphy had just missed a three-footer and finished with a bogey on the par-four 15th, which was being used as the first playoff hole.

The 15th had never given Jones any trouble during the four days. But Murphy, who was seeking his first tournament win since the Hartford Open in 1970, had a bogey and three pars on that eventful hole. Jnes had two birdies and two pars.

MURPHY

Bob Murphy, a cigar-smoking pro from Jacksonville, Fla., said the hole that cost him the tournament was the 14th in which he scored a bogey five after being 15-under and a shot ahead of Jones who was playing ahead of him.

Murphy's second shot was in the sand trap and he missed his third. His fourth hit the cup and bounced out.

"I had a three and then a four and then made a five," he said. After scoring a birdie on the 13th, Murphy thought he had the title. "I thought it was all over then," he said.

"It's tough to lead a tournament all week."

UNUSUAL

He also added it was "unusual to get beat by a 64." He predicted after Saturday's round that if he shot a 68 Sunday he would win the tournament. "Sixty-eight, that's my number," he said then. "I would have won it, but I had a 69."

Murphy started Sunday with a one-stroke-lead at 11-under 205. He picked up four birdies and that fateful bogey on the 14th in the final round.

Jones, meanwhile, who started the day five strokes off with a 210, shot a sizzling eight-under-64, one stroke shy of the 18-hole record set by Jack Nicklaus in 1968.

THIRD

Picking up third place money was Charles Coody who fashioned a four-under-par 68 for a 275 total. Marty Fleckman of Port Arthur, Tex., was right behind with 276 after carding a four-under-68. Tied at 278 were Bob Rosburg, John Schlee, Bunky Henry, Jim Jamieson and Curtis Sifford.

Napa's Ron Cerrudo took home $1,900 for his 281. He shot a 69 in the final found.

Arnold Palmer, almost looking the Arnie of old, tried to put on one of his patented charges by firing five birdies on his first nine holes, after being eight strokes back. He finished with a six-under-66 for a 279 total with six others, including Rod Funseth, who started the day only one stroke back, and Lee Trevino.

The weather over the 7,122 yard oceanside course at the plush Waialae Country Club was cloudy and cool with slight breezes. Fifty-three players broke par Sunday as the weather improved from Saturday.

Red Wings Overcome Seals, 8-2

DETROIT (UPI)—A two-goal lead does not necessarily mean prosperity for the California Golden Seals.

For the second game in a row, the Seals jumped to a 2-0 lead over their foes, only to watch it evaporate. Detroit erupted for three goals in 79 seconds of the first period to wipe out that California lead en route to an 8-2 victory Sunday night.

MEANIE

The big meanie for the Red Wings was Mickey Redmond who scored three goals—one in each period—to give him 32 for the season. Defenseman Ron Stackhouse of the Red Wings, a former Seal, had three assists.

After Seals goalie Gilles Melochie was bombed for three more goals in the middle period, coach Vic Stasiuk mercifully inserted Gary Kurt for the final period. Kurt didn't escape unscathed as Red Berenson and Redmond zinged goals past him.

EARLY LEAD

Things looked bright for the Seals when Gerry Pinder and Gary Croteau scored in the first period to give the Seals a 2-0 bulge.

But in the next 1:19, Billy Collins scored from a pileup in front of Meloche at 17:15 and Guy Charron and Redmond followed with scores in quick succession to dazzle Meloche.

FRIDAY

California also jumped to a 20 lead over Montreal Friday night, only to see the Canadiens tie it in the final eight minutes.

Next game for the Seals is Wednesday night against the Philadelphia Flyers in Oakland.

Warriors To Face Baltimore

IN OAKLAND

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Golden State Warriors have a couple of days off and to that end, Clyde Lee, Fritz Williams and Jeff Mullins say amen.

Those three players rested their gimpy legs Sunday and today while awaiting Tuesday night's clash against the Balti All three are hobbled by injuries which might be an acceptable excuse why the Warriors have lost their last two games, including a 108-96 thumping by the Los Angeles Lakers Saturday night.

Golden State delighted a sellout crowd of 13,502 by whittling a 16-point deficit to two points at 98-96. But the Lakers scored the final 10 points to sink any comeback aspirations of the gold shirts.

Lee played only a few moments because of a hamstring pull, Williams made a brief appearance because of a calf injury and Mullins managed 21 points despite a sore ankle.

Those three players rested their gimpy legs Sunday and today while awaiting Tuesday night's clash against the Baltimore Bullets at the Coliseum-Arena.

Nate Thurmond performed magnificently against the taller Wilt Chamberlain Saturday night. The 6-11 Warrior center tallied 29 points, including 12 in the fourth quarter, and had 24 rebounds. Chamberlain scored only five points and jerked down 22 caroms.

But the Lakers kept comfortably ahead of the Warriors while getting 30 points from Gail Goodrich, 26 from Jim McMillian and 25 from Jerry West along with 14 assists.

Rick Foley Suspended By Flyers

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Philadelphia Flyers today suspended defenseman Rick Foley indefinitely.

Flyers Coach Fred Shero said the 6-foot-4 veteran was suspended for "failure to arrive in good physical condition this season."

Foley, who has not suited up for the last five games, has played in B41 games this season and recorded seven goals and 16 assists.

He was acquired from the Chicago Blackhawks last year in a trade for former Philadelphia center Andre LaCroix.

SOCCER TEAM JAILED IN ARGENTINA FUROR

CORDOBA, Argentina (UPI) —An entire soccer team was lodged in jail here Sunday after a linesman was attacked and kicked to death during a game squabble, police said.

Agustin Bazzo died from internal injuries resulting from kicks and blows.

The club is the "Sportivo Rural" team—made up of local non-professional players.

One of "Sportivo Rural's" players was expelled from the field and his teammates then attacked game referee Oscar Fragot. When Bazzo came to his aid from his linesman post, the players turned on him too, police said.

Tuinzing Smashes Shields For Crown

Kees Tuinzing of Mill Valley upended Jim Shields of Novato with a foot sweep and followed with a "killing blow" within inches of Shields' head to win the individual competition in the first annual Pacific Association of the Amateur Athletic Union karate championships Saturday at the Novato Community Center.

Shields was second and Peter Gadd of Pleasant Hill third among competitors from Walnut Creek, Redwood City, Berkeley, Sonoma County and Marin County.

Hamilton Air Force Base won the team competition with a five-man team of Jerry Wernert, Jim Cooper, Jim Farrant, Gary Allison and John Hoar. Novato took second and Redwood City third.

Mike Brunder of Petaluma won the children's competition, with Mike Sarganis of Novato second and John Seaman of Loma Verde third. In the "over-40" division, Ed Sanchez of Walnut Creek was the winner, with Chuck Smith of Walnut Creek second and the meet's oldest competitor, 54-year-old Tom Schumacker, third.

Buffalo Surprises Boston, 8-2

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Buffalo 8, Boston 2! Who would've ever belived it.

Nevertheless that was the real score Sunday as the Buffalo Sabres enjoyed their finest hour in the National Hockey League since beginning play a year ago by belting the East Division leading Boston Bruins.

The victory was the most lopsided in Buffalo's short history and the Bruins, although thoroughly embarrased, are believing.

In other NHL games, New York and Toronto battled to a 2-2 tie, Chicago blanked Minnesota 5-0, Philadelphia and St. Louis deadlocked at 2-2, Detroit walloped California 8-2 and Montreal upended Vancouver 4-2.

'PSYCHED UP'

"Everybody was psyched up for this game," said Sabres' rookie Richard Martin who scored twice in the rout. "We were just super."

The Bruins never really had a chance as Don Luce, Gerry Meehan and Martin all scored within a three-minute span late in the first period to put Buffalo out in front 3-0.

Mike Byers, Eddie Shack and Jim Lorentz boosted the margin to 6-0 before Boston finally got on tha scoreboard with Mike Walton's power play goal in the second period.

After Lorentz' second goal at 4:25 of the third period, Martin poked in his 37th score, leaving him one behind the rookie record set last year by teammate Gil Perreault.

'MORE HITS'

"We had more hits tonight than we had all year," said Sabres' interim coach Joe Crozier. "Perreault proved he can do everything on ice by stopping (Phil) Esposito."

While Boston was being humiliated by the lowly Sabres, the Bruins' arch rivals, the New York Rangers, weren't doing that much better. Sitting on a comfortable 2-0 third period lead, the Rangers were stunned by two quick leaf goals by Rick Kehoe and Denis Dupere in the final stanza and had to settle for a tie on home ice.

PUT AWAY

New York almost had the game put away when Rod Gilbert scored what appeared to be the third ranger goal. But referee Billy Friday ruled Gilbert had touched the puck with his hand and disallowed the goal.

"I had both hands on my stick," Gilbert protested after the game. Coach Emile Francis agreed. "There's no way that wasn't a goal," Francis said. "The films will show it. I think (Scotty) Morrison, (referee in chief) better build himself a movie room for us by the time this season's over."

SCORE PAIR

Dennis Hull and Jim Pappin got a pair of goals each to back goalie Tony Esposito's seventh shutout of the season as the Black Hawks increased their West Division lead over Minnesota to 14 points. The North Stars have lost all five games to the Hawks this year.

Simon Nolet and Gary Dornhoefer tallied third period gaols to earn Philadelphia its 2-2 tie with St. Louis.

Walker Buries 56 Points

Forward Triggers Bulls' Win

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Chet Walker, who says he'll probably play only one more year of pro basketball, may change his mind after Sunday's Performance.

Walker, who'll be 32 later this month and is in his 10th National Basketball Association Season, cut loose with a 56-point performance Sunday as the Chicago Bulls trounced the Cincinnati Royals 119-94.

The 56 points represent a career-high for Walker, a forward, and mark the most points scored by one player in the NBA this season. Milwaukee's Karrem Abdul-Jabbar had the previous high of 54.

Walker scored 16 points in the opening period, 13 in the second, 14 in the third and 13 again in the final quarter as he broke Bob Love's club record of 47 points. Walker also set a team mark formost field goals in a game—22.

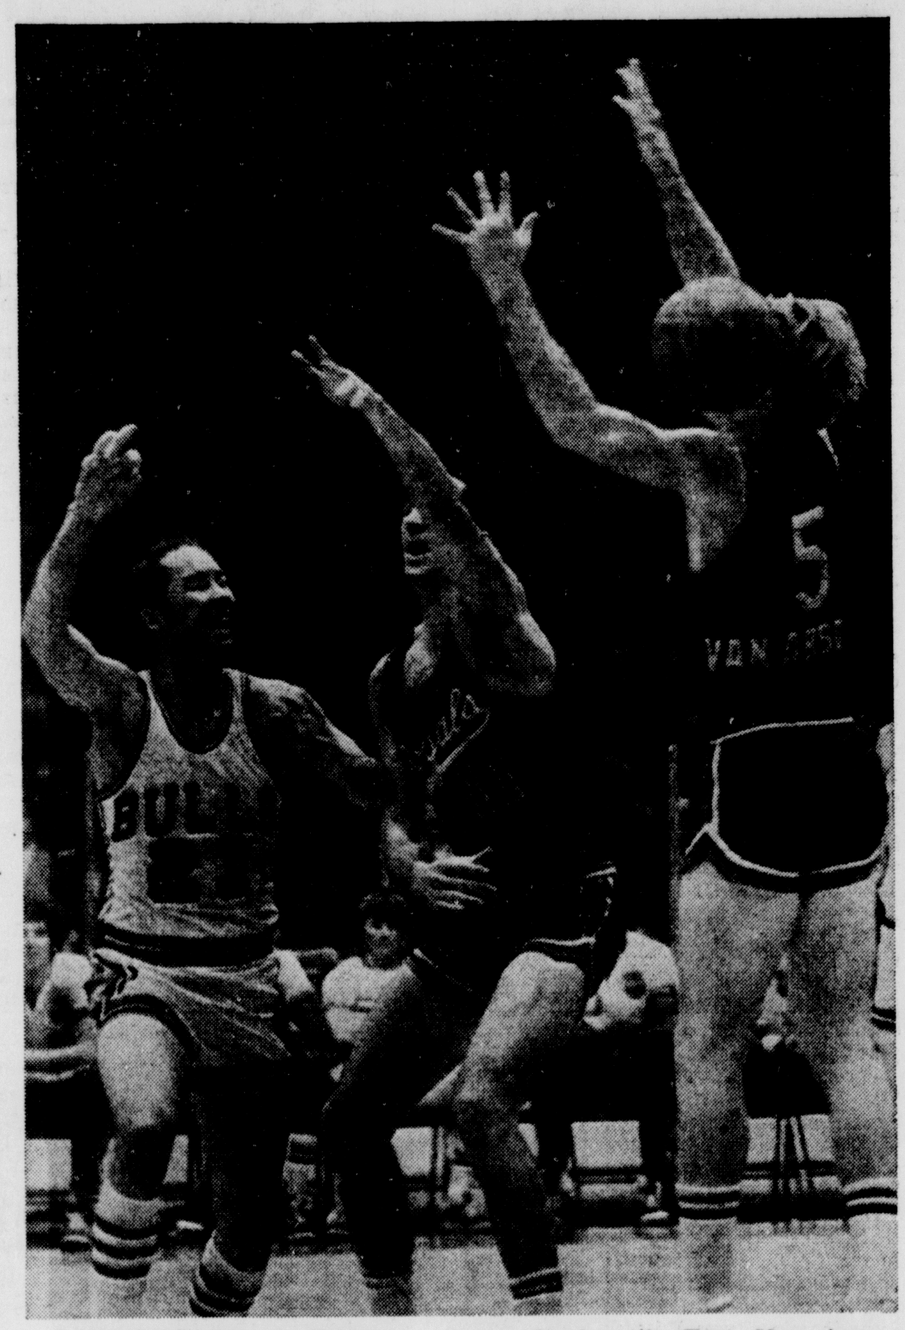

Love added 21 points for the Bulls while Nate Archibald led Cincinnati with 24.

Elsewhere, Los Angeles routed Baltimore 151-127, New York Edged Philadelphia 109-107, Phoenix beat Portland 107-94, Houston stopped Atlanta 120-113 and Buffalo rolled over Cleveland 121-108.

Jerry West hit 16 of his 25 points in a second period surge that boosted the Lakers past Baltimore. With West leading the way, Los Angeles outscored the Bullets 38-12 during one stretch and 39-19 overall to take a commanding lead. John Q. Trapp had a career-high 27 points to lead Los Angeles to its sixth consecutive victory and Archie Clark had 38 for Baltimore, which suffered its fourth straight loss.

Bill Bradley and Earl Monroe hit for 11 of New York's last 13 points as the Knicks beat the 76ers. Bradley led the Knicks with 28 points, including a long jumper late in the game that pushed New York out of reach, Walt Frazier had 26 and Monroe 21.

Lamar Green and Otto Moore led a fourth-quarter surge that enabled Phoenix to beat the Trail Blazers. Green and Moore had six of the Suns' first 16 points in the final quarter as Phoenix moved from a 72-69 lead to an 88-79 advantage. Paul Silas had 26 to lead the Suns while Geoff Petrie was high man for Portland with 33.

Floridians Defeat Pittsburgh

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Mack Calvin got well, and not surprisingly, so did the Floridians.

Calvin, one of the top guards in the American Basketball Association, returned to action Sunday night after missing two gaMes with the flu and scored 37 points to pace the Floridians to a 144-117 victory over the Pittsburgh Condors.

The victory ended a six-game losing streak and enabled the Floridians to climb into fourth place in the Eastern Division.

John Brisker of Pittsburgh took game scoring honors with 40 points and teammate George Thompson added 30, but it was not enough to keep the Condors from losing for the 13th time in their last 17 outings.

In other action, Kentucky defeated New York 118-106, Dallas beat Memphis 107-84 and Denver downed Indiana 115-107.

Louis Dampier scored a season high 39 points and Dan Issel tallied 31 to pace Kentucky's victory over the Nets. Rick Barry got 37 points for the Nets.

Donnie Freeman led a balanced attack with 23 points as Dallas trimmed Memphis in the first game of a doubleheader at Denver and reserve guard Chuck Williams' career high 36 points paced the Rockets to a triumph in the nightcap.

Rod Laver Takes Net Victory

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—The winner of the $50,000 Fidelity World Championship Tennis Tournament, Rod Laver of Australia says his slow start in the final Sunday really wasn't a slow start at all.

"It wasn't really a slow start for me," he said. "(Cliff) Drysdale was just playing too great. I was lucky to get any games at all in the first set and a half." Laver, after dropping the first set and falling behind 2-0 in the second, rallied to beat Drysdale 2-6, 6-3, 7-5, 6-3.

Already the world's richest tennis player, the 33-year-old Laver pockets $10,000 more for the victory while Drysdale receives $5,000.

Laver had early problems with his serve, double faulting twice in the first set and three times in the third set. He said his service troubles were the result of "trying to put too much pressure on the ball to drive him (Drysdale) back. I wanted to keep him from making so many of those twofisted backhand passes."

In doubles play, Tom Okker of Holland and Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., defeated Tony Roche and John Newcombe, both of Australia, 7-6, 7-6.

Okker and Riessen were seeded second in the tourney, and they will split $1,800. Roche and Newcombe will get $800.

Andretti, Ickx Win Daytona Auto Race

By DAVID L. LANGFORD

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—"Hell, it's all over again."

That thought flashed through the mind of a frustrated Mario Andretti as his factory-prepared Ferrari lost a cylinder shortly after the start of Sunday's six-hour Daytona Continental endurance race.

But not to be cheated of victory again by a malfunctioning machine, the 31-year-old Italian-American and his co-driver, Jacky Ickx of Belgium, decided to bully their way out front on the "busy freeway" of Daytona International Speedway.

"We couldn't afford to lose the time we were losing on the banking, so we were trying to make it up on the infield," said Andretti after he and Ickx had fought their way to the winners circle. "I started changing my style and going hell bent.

"I drove as hard as I could and this is why I had brushes with other cars. The slower cars wouldn't see me coming and move into the hole, so I brushed them out of the way."

Thus Andretti broke his jinx after disappointing seasons the past two years. With Ickx taking the wheel half the time, the winning Ferrari averaged 124.716 miles per hour, in a 720-mile run on the 3.81-mile track and road course. All the while the three-liter factory-prepped car was running on only 11 of 12 cylinders and its fuel system was feeding a "too rich" mixture. Andretti figures that cost them 14 miles per hour in speed.

With another Ferrari driven by Sweden's Ronnie Peterson and Australia's Tim Schenken finishing second, just one lap behind, the "prancing horse" got a foothold on a climb to its first world manufacturer's championship since 1954.

And to put the icing on the cake, the third Ferrari in the Daytona classic finished fourth with Switzerland's Clay Regazzoni and England's Brian Redman doing the driving.

The strongest challenge came from an Alfa Romeo piloted by Vic Elford of France and Helmut Marko of Austria which finished third, two laps behind the leader.

It put Ferrari far out front in the race for the world manufacturer's championship, with 40 points to Alfa's 24.

Still undecided was whether Ferrari will enter next month's 12 Hours of Sebring, the next stop on the tour. A Sebring spokesman said a contract "still has to be negotiated." Andretti said, "I'm not positive, but I think we're going there."

Andretti, winner of the Indianapolis 500 in 1969, said 1970 and 1971 were his "dark years" in racing. It looked like 1972 was off to a bad start when problems with a switch knocked him and Ickx out of concentention in the Buenos Aires opener.

"There is always this little stuff going wrong," said the 13-year veteran whose best finish in a long-distance Daytona road race was third place in 1970. "Here I felt we had somewhat of an advantage. But this morning, when we started the race and found out we were running on just 11 cylinders, I figured, hell, it's all over again."

The Ferrari team never did find the cause.

Andretti says he has no doubt the three-liter Ferraris will hold up in the tough 12-hour Sebring run.

"I say one thing, this is a fabulous sports car," he said. "The engine is very durable."

He said the Ferrari racing team, headed by young Peter Schetty, is "really doing their homework."

"The cars are coming to the race track really prepared," he said.

Ickx, who had to catch a plane immediately after the race, called Andretti "the best co-driver I've ever had."

Trio Joins East-West Cage Field

Don Griffin of Stanford, Russ Dickens of Grambling and Doug Clevenger of Army have been added to the rosters for the second annual East-West College All-Star Basketball Classic at Terra Linda High on February 17.

Dickens and Clevenger will join Tom Daley of Penn State, Jim Oxley of Army and Jerry Lattimore, Roger Williams College in Rhode Island on the East squad. Griffin will team with Austin Burton, Dallas Baptist College, and Don Crenshaw, university of Southern Cal, for the West.

Fouteen players are expected to be on each orster for this game which pits the top college players in the army from Eastern colleges against Western college stars.

Griffin received All-American recognition in 1969 at Stanford when he was one of the leading scorers in the Pacific 8 Conference.

Dickens, the 6-9 pivot man from Grambling, is a cinch to make it big in professional basketball according to Coach Hal Fischer.

"This kid has all the tools to make it big with the pros," commented Fischer. "We hope Dickens can take Hillman's (Darnell) spot on our club this year."

Clevenger was captain of the West Point team in 1971. The 6-3 guard set a scoring record for the West Point Field House by scoring 37 points against Maryland last year.

Tickets for next week's classic (Thursday) are currently on sale at Taveggia and Brusati Sports Store, 1340 4th Street, and Sportsland in the Terra Linda Shopping Center. Price is 1.50.

Cal State Thrashes Sonoma State 'Five'

By PAUL DWORIN

Sonoma State College and Cal State Hayward played only 39 minutes and 59 seconds of basketball Saturday night, but it was enough time for the Pioneers from Hayward to romp over host Cossack, 97-81, handing them their seventh Far Western conference defeat.

A vociferous Henry Crawford of Sonoma was slapped with three technical fouls and ejected for complaining about the officiating. The Cossack guard spent much of the second half questioning the referree calls before he and the game were stopped with one second left.

After a Sluggish first half in which neither team could hit sufficiently, both teams came on strong in the second half, exploding for 115 points combined.

Behind by 13 at halftime, 38-25, Sonoma State came out in the second half with a full court, man-to-man press. The move was effective early, forcing Pioneer turnovers and cutting down Cal State Hayward's lead to seven with 8:19 to play.

Then, Payward center Pat Loushin and foreward Stan Cherry broke the press wide open, getting four fast-break layups and put the Pioneers comfortably ahead by 15.

Loushin, a 6-foot-6 junior, was the big man for the Pioneers in that high scoring second half, hitting for 21 of his game high 27 points.

Sonoma State, which hit a blistering 63.6 per cent of its shots in the second half, was led by Al Martinson's 21 points. Martinson, a 6-4 freshman from Sonoma starting for first time, connected on three straight 20-footers from the baseline late in the game to start another Cossack drive, cutting the deficit to 12 points.

Martinson got scoring help from Jim Delaughter with 13 points and Larry Austin with 10.

Cal State Hayward outrebounded the Cossacks, 64-51, with Loushin and Ernie Robinson picking off 11 each for the Pioneers. Forward Larry Austin got 11 for Sonoma State.

Coming into the game with a five-game winning streak and a 6-1 league record, the Vallejo Apaches will seek to reverse their only league loss to Petaluma, a defeat which started the Trojans' own six-game winning streak enroute to a 6-1 NBL mark.

The Apaches are a well-balanced, experienced team with the NBL's leading scorer in Ray Martin, averaging over 23 points a contest. Vallejo's large front line is led by 6-foot-6 center Harold Boyden, who canned 36 points in the last meeting between the teams.

Jerry Johnson Seeks Control Of Temper

Jerry Johnson won 12 games in relief for the Giants last season and saved 18 others. He did it with his fast ball that runs away from righthanded batters, occasionally sails upward and sometimes leaves black and blue marks on his catcher, Dick Dietz.

"I don't know where it's going at times and neither does Dietz," said Johnson the other day on a visit to Candlestick Park for 1972 contract talk with Jerry Donovan, Horace Stoneham's chief negotiator.

JOHNSON AND Donovan didn't get together on a new agreement for the Giants' bullpen ace in their first talk but that didn't seem to worry Johnson who has a fine sense of humor notwithstanding his reputation of having a trigger temper.

"I've been learning how to count to ten during the winter and taking two deep breaths," said Johnson. "With a little more practice I should be able to do it automatically in sticky situations next season."

Johnson, of course, fully appreciates that when he gets the red neck he isn't able to concentrate on his job the way he should. His job always involves sticky situations — runners on base and an enemy rally under way.

How does he feel walking into such situations?

"LIKE I CAN get everybody out," said Johnson. "If I can't get a strikeout, I still feel I've done my job if I get a ground ball. With fellows like Chris Speier and Tito Fuentes behind me, I know they'll handle the ground ball.

"We're going to be stronger this year because Speier now has his first major league season behind him, a fabulous season for the 21-year-old rookie. As for Fuentes, he was the best second baseman in the league last year regardless of what anyone might say to the contrary."

Johnson, like all of the Giants, was sorry to see Gaylord Perry go in a winter trade for Sam McDowell but said: "McDowell's recommendations couldn't be better. All you need do is look at his American League record with Cleveland."

JOHNSON THINKS that Don Carrithers will have an excellent shot at the No. 3 or No. 4 starting pitching job behind Juan Marichal and McDowell. And he feels that Jim Barr will be his bullpen sidekick this season, replacing Don McMahon.

"Don't misunderstand me," said Johnson. "McMahon still can do marvelous things in a pinch. But he now is 42. He taught me an awful lot last year, showing me how to set up a batter with a pitching pattern."

McMAHON WILL still be teaching Johnson this season — all other members of the team pitching staff, too. McMahon is slated for double duty this year as pitching coach and spot relief man when needed.

"The young members of the staff will like that," said Johnson, "because McMahon is with it. There's no generation gap between him and the young fellows."

Baltimore Pair Wins In Golf

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI)—Jim Palmer of the Orioles, and Willie Richardson of the Colts, dubbed the "Baltimore bandits by one of their opponents, pulled off a $10,0006heist Sunday in winning the sixth annual American Airlines Golf Classic.

Palmer, a 12-handicapper, had a sparkling 75 which included a two-stroke penalty for a ball out of bounds on the 17th. He was even par over the first 16 holes. Richardson, an eight handicapper, shot a one under par 35 on the front nine and came home in 39 for a 74 at the rain-soaked Cerromar Beach Hotel Golf Course.

The Baltimore duo had a 54 hole total of 174, 42 under par. They had a best ball 56 Sunday.

"I told my wife that I would give her anything I won down here", Palmer said after collecting his $5,000 share of first prize. "I'm afraid I'm going to have to go back on my word," he grinned.

Palmer said he really wasn't nervous and that he and Willie were both playing so well that as a team they were never in trouble.

Invitations to the American Airlines Golf Classic are tough to come by as only 32 baseball and 32 football players are selected each year. All player expenses are picked Up by the air line.

Sal Bando of the Oakland A's and Daryle Lamonica of the Oakland Raiders finished alone in second place two strokes back.

Tournament Won By Gus Lampo

SAN JOSE (UPI)—Winning has become a new-found habit with pro bowler Gus Lampo of Endicott, N.Y.

The 28-year-old righthander won his first pro bowling crown two weeks ago at Las Pegas and came back Saturday to win the $10,000 first prize and a new auto in the $85,000 Mercury Cougar Open at Saratoga Lanes.

Lampo beat Don Glover of South Bend, Ind., 258-224 in the title match. Glover was awarded $6,000 while third place of $4,000 went to Mike Orlovsky, a hometown friend and traveling companion of Lampo.

UCLA Rugby Team Defeats Cal, 12-7

BERKELEY (UPI) —Bruce Barnes booted four penalty kicks to give UCLA a 12-7 rugby win over California Saturday in the mud and rain.

Cal scored on wing Steve Kemnitzer's try late in the first half plus a penalty kick by Terry Buchanan. UCLA is now 4-0 and Cal 4-1 in rugby.

UCLA, Washington Clash

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Two of the season's biggest basketball games on the West Coast unfurl this weekend at Santa Clara and UCLA.

San Francisco and Santa Clara will break their 6-0 deadlock in the West Coast Athletic Conference on the Bronco hardwood Saturday night. On the same night in Los Angeles, UCLA faces a serious challenge from the Washington Huskies who are 4-1 in the Pacific-8 Conference and one of the few remaining obstacles to another league title for the Bruins.

UCLA thumped cross-city rival University of Southern California 81-56 Saturday night to remain all alone in first place in the conference with a 5-0 record and 17-0 overall. Absorbing its fourth straight loss, USC is now 4-1 in the Pac-8.

In the WCAC, Santa Clara got 31 points and a personal high of 19 rebounds from center Mike Stewart to down Pepperdine 106-85 despite 38 points by William (Bird) Averitt. USF whipped Loyola 79-66 behind forward Johnny Burks' 23 points, and Nevada-Las Vegas throttled St. Mary's 99-80 as Booker Washington scored 29 points.

In the Pacific-8, California's Ansley Truitt hit on 12 of 22 field goals for 26 points and snagged 14 rebounds in leading the Bears past Stanford 84-70. Cal connected on 57.1 per cent of its shots while Stanford's accuracy was less than 40 per cent. That left Cal at 2-4 in the Pac-8 and Stanford at 3-3.

Doug Little netted 24 points and collared 16 rebounds to lead Oregon past Oregon State 71-63 in a non-conference game for the second time in a week.

UCLA's zone press forced the injury hampered Trojans into 21 turnovers. Center Bill Walton helped the top-ranked Bruins control the backboards with 10 rebounds. Walton also tallied 22 points in 30 minutes to tie for game scoring honors with USC's Joe Mackey.

The Trojans played without ace guard Paul Westphal and three other key players who were injured either before the season started or in the early stages of the campaign.

San Jose State scored its fourth upset in its last five games by stunning the University of Pacific 72-70 in San Jose. The loss knocked the Tigers a full game behind leader Long Beach State in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

Don Strong of the Spartans broke a 66-66 tie with 49 seconds remaining by stealing the ball and driving in for a layup. Then with 19 seconds to go, Strong converted two free throws for a 72-68 lead to insure the Spartan victory.

San Jose State's only loss in its last five games has been by one point to Long Beach State. However, the Spartans have a long way to go in the PCAA with a 2-4 record and 8-12 overall.

San Francisco State defeated Humboldt State 76-63 to remain on top of the Far Western Conference standings with a 6-0 record. One game behind at 5-1 is Sacramento State which beat Chico State 90-80. In other FWC contests, UC Davis socked Stanislaus State 88-79 and Howard State handed Sonoma State its 18th loss of the season 97-81.

Clemente Signs Contract For Reported $150,000

PITTSBURGH — It took Pittsburgh Pirates general manager Joe L. Brown only five minutes to sign outfielder Roberto Clemente to a 1972 contract for a reported $150,000.

"Roberto and I have been getting along for 17 years," Brown said last night at the 36th annual Dapper Dan banquet. "It wasn't difficult signing him — it wasn't my money."

Terms of the contract were not disclosed, but it was reported Clemente received a raise of $25,000 over his 1971 contract.

Chris Evert Faces Billie Jean King

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Chris Evert; the 17-yearold hometown girl and latest marvel of the tennis world, met her old nemesis Billie Jean King today in the finals of the $25,000 Women's International Tournament.

The tournament was part of the Virginia Slims Tour.

Today's affair was the first rematch of the U.S. Open semifinal at Forest Hills, N.Y., last year when Mrs. King stopped the Fort Lauderdale high school girl's bid for tennis immorality. Mrs. King went on to defeat Rosemary Casals in the open final.

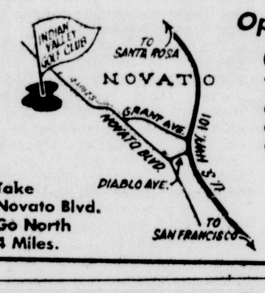

"There's only one way to play Chris," said the 28-year-old Mrs. King, who is top seeded in the tournament. "The catch is you have to know how to do it. "Win the last point."

The self-styled "old lady" from California was in good form Sunday, downing her semifinal opponent Wendy Overton of Chevy Chase, md., 6-2, 6-1, with a full repertoire of drop shots, cut shots, overhead smashes and a blazing backhand.

Miss Evert, playing before a cheering hometown crowd, relied on her two-handed backhand and excellent control to defeat Australia's Judy Dalton in the other semifinal, 6-1, 6-3.

Mrs. King, last year's leading money winner on the pro tour, can collect $4,400 first prize money knocking off Miss Evert. The local girl had no financial stake in victory since she is an amateur.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

New Rules For Capital Gains: Maximum Rate 25 To 32%5 Pct.

Here are the new rules for capital gains.

The maximum rate is 25 per cent, bkt only on the first $50,000 of long term capital gains before the 50 per cent deduction. The excess over $50,000 will be taxed at 32½ per cent for 1971.

After 1971, because only 50 per cent of long term capital gains is taxed and the top rate is 70 per cent, there will be an effective maximum tax of 35 per cent on long term gains.

The whole thing only applies to you if your taxable income is over $32,000 for a single taxpayer and if you are married and filing a separate return, over $22,000, and if filing a joint return $44,000. If you qualify as Head of Household then your taxable income must exceed $38,000 before the above applies.

Also taxed at the maximum 25 per cent rate are gains received before Jan. 1, 1975, from contracts binding on Oct. 9, 1969, except for certain timber, coal, domestic iron ore and patent contracts and also liquidating distributions made before Oct. 10, 1970, under a plan of complete liquidation adopted by Oct. 9, 1969.

However, these reduce the $50,000 allowance so that the 25 per cent rate cannot be used on more than $50,000 in any one year.

The untaxed portion of a long term capital gain is a tax preference item and is added to other tax preferences and taxed at 10 per cent to the extent that they exceed $30,000 and the regular income tax.

Only 50 per cent of long term capital losses can be used to offset ordinary income.

The $1,000 maximum capital loss deduction has been reduced to $500 for married persons filing separate returns.

After 1969, all casualty (or theft) gains and losses on business property or capital assets held for more than six months must be combined. If the casualty losses exceed the casualty gains, the net loss is treated as an ordinary loss without regard to whether there may be noncasualty gains of business property. If, however, the casualty gains exceed the casualty losses, the net gain is treated as a business property gain and must be consolidated with other gains and losses under Section 1231 (Business Property).

Horses and cattle purchased after 1969 and held for draft, breeding, dairy or sporting purposes are considered business only if you hold them for at least two years.

A lump sum distribution for 1970 or later, out of employee benefit plans, which was accrued in plan years beginning after Jan. 1, 1970, is capital gain only to the extent that the taxable portion exceeds the employer contributions. If the distribution was employer stock, a special rule applies.

After July 25, 1969, the sale of letters, memorandums or similar property by the creator or for one for whom they were prepared or created is considered ordinary income.

After Jan. 1, 1970, the transfer of a franchise trade mark or trade name is treated as ordinary income if the seller retains any significant power, right or continuing interest.

Basis for original issue discount bonds after May 27, 1969, is increased by the bondholders amortized discount income.

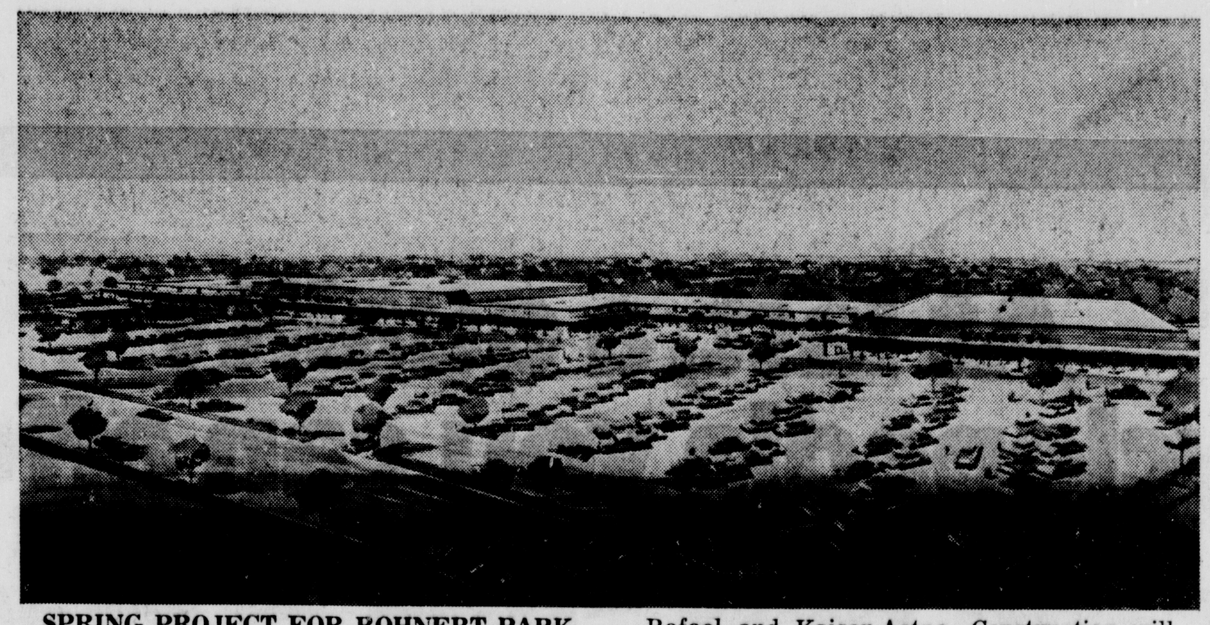

If you had an involuntary conversion you now have two years after the year in which part of the gain on conversion was realized in order to replace your property.

Stocks Fairly Active, Trading Is Varied

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market was mixed in fairly active trading today on the New York Stock Exchange. Leading indicators showed little change.

Some analysts said investors have had some confidence revived by last Friday's announcement the United States and European Common Market countries have made some progress toward a trade agreement.

Advances led declines, 659 to 585, among the 1,585 issues crossing the tape. Volume amounted to about 8,000,000 shares.

Prices were mixed in fairly active trading on the American Stock Exchange. Among the most active issues were Champion Home Builders, off 5-8 at 57 3-4 on 22,900 shares; Compugraphic, up 1⅝ at 14⅞ on 21,400 shares, and Allied Artists, up 1-8 at 6 1-4 on 17,500 shares.

Steels and rails headed mostly down in NYSE trading. Motors were mixed. Chrysler picked up 3-8, White Motor 1-4. Ford fell 1-8 and General Motors 1-4.

General Motors announced Friday it was entering the motor home industry. Motor home issues felt the shock. Winnebago, the largest, fell 3 points.

Airlines generally were higher. UAL Inc. climbed 1 1-8, National 1. Aircrafts also were higher. McDonnell Douglas rose 1 3-8.

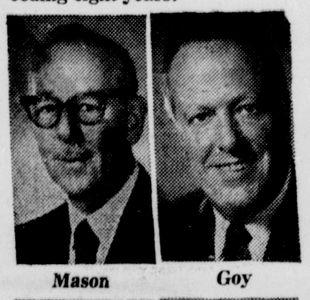

Electronic and computer issues were mixed. Honeywell lost 1 1-2 and Texas Instruments dropped 1 1-4.

Polaroid was an active issue. It fell more than 4 points. An article in Barron's, a weekly financial magazine, said the company's 1972 earnings were likely to be skimpy.

For a limited time only, we're offering the complete 25-volume set of the Funk & Wagnalls New Encyclopedia—so new it's never been sold before.

Don't let the price fool you. Funk & Wagnalls is one of the most recognized names in encyclopedia publishing. Only because they sell millions of volumes this way—direct to you through supermarkets—can this quality encyclopedia be offered to you at this price.

Funk & Wagnalls New Encyclopedia is also easy to buy. Instead of buying the complete set all at once, you buy a volume or two a week when you shop.

Of course, selling an encyclopedia volume by volume also makes it easy not to buy. So it had better be good enough to keep people coming back for more.

It is.

The Funk & Wagnalls New Encyclopedia contains over 100,000 indexed subjects, as many as encyclopedias costing hundreds of dollars more.

It has over 7,000,000 words in 12,016 pages with over 7,000 illustrations—many in full color.

It was written and edited by over 500 scholars, including Nobel and Pulitzer Prize winners.

Still, it's written in clear, simple English. (The Funk & Wagnalls is a family encyclopedia. It's written so both children and parents can understand it.)

It's bound in sturdy, elegant covers to resist the ravages of time and children.

In fact, the only thing you don't get with the Funk & Wagnalls is a salesman. It's sold direct to you through us.

So, come in and spend just 49¢ and try a little low-pressure salesmanship on yourself.

If the salesman in you wins, the consumer in you will be richer for it.
